Premier Dies In Jordan Bombing Plot

10 Others Hurt As Blast Shatters Foreign Ministry

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—A bomb explosion in the Jordanian capital of Amman today killed Premier Hazza Al-Majali and destroyed the foreign ministry building. The blast threatened the Middle East with another major crisis.

Amman radio broadcasts reported up to 10 other persons killed and 50 injured in the explosion that came as Al-Majali, an anti-Communist, met with his cabinet in the shattered building. Cairo report said two time bombs went off.

HAZZA AL-MAJALI
Assassinated

King Hussein, a frequent target of attack by enemies within and without his troubled kingdom, was in his own palace and escaped injury, the radio reports said. He immediately clamped a curfew on the city and placed it under martial rule.

STREETS PATROLLED
Troops of the loyal Arab legion patrolled the deserted streets of Amman to guard against uprisings, all Jordanian airports were closed, and the government declared a state of emergency, the radio reports said.

Reliable reports reaching Beirut said Hussein had named Benja Talhouni, chief of the royal cabinet, as the new prime minister. Talhouni, known to be loyal to Hussein, is a former minister of the interior and chief judge of the court of appeals.

TWO VICTIMS
The Jordan Embassy in London said Zaha Humoud, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Asem Tagi, director of tourism, were victims of the explosion that killed Al-Majali.

Wasfi Tel, Amman's director of broadcasting and information, said at Beirut that 10 persons were killed, and more than 50 injured when the explosion crumpled the building. Cairo reports said Hussein See JORDAN, page 4

NEST OPENED

Squadron Of Insects Sting Man

A San Rafael fence builder was badly stung by a squadron of yellow jackets yesterday afternoon when the victim's brother-in-law accidentally rammed a shovel into the insects' nest.

Charles Morey of 15 Mariposa Road was helping his brother-in-law, Donald Hollingsworth of Fremont Road in San Rafael, put in a new gate for the front yard. Hollingsworth began to dig a hole for the gate post when his shovel broke open a nest of yellow jackets. They poured out and onto Morey's face and arms.

Morey said he pulled his shirt over his head and threw himself onto the ground, kicking slapping dust over himself until the insects retreated. Morey was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for stings on his head, neck, arms, hands and chest.

Today with one eye still swollen shut, Morey said at home, "I'm all right, but I've felt better on other days."

His brother-in-law was stung once.

BREATHING, PRAYER

Youngster Saved By Grandmother

By PAUL MILLER

A San Rafael grandmother by prayer and quick thinking yesterday saved the life of her 3-year-old grandson.

Saturday afternoon Michael Hugh Lee, 3, was glad he felt good, even though he had hit his head while playing in the back yard of his San Francisco home the same day, and had to be taken to a hospital where two stitches closed the wound.

Michael was glad because his mother, Mrs. Gilbert Lee, said Michael could still go with her to visit her mother in San Rafael yesterday.

Yesterday at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Edith Martinelli, of 47 Greenfield Avenue, Michael said he felt a "little sick." His mother had gone to church just before noon and so Mrs. Martinelli put her grandson to bed, and then sat with him.

Michael started to shake violently, and then he began to turn blue.

"He stopped breathing and became unconscious," said Mrs. Martinelli. "I remember reading of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in a magazine recently; so I put my mouth to his and at the same time I prayed. I always pray," said the grandmother.

In a few minutes the youngster began breathing with his grandmother and as he opened his eyes, firemen, called by his grandfather, George Martinelli, put an oxygen mask on the boy's face. Michael was taken to San Rafael General Hospital.

Doctors at the hospital were not sure whether the boy's seizure had been a result of the injury Saturday, but they were sure the boy was all right and let him go home. Michael's father is a doctor.

He was reported in good condition today, proud of his wise and devout grandmother in San Rafael.

Plane Hits Power Lines, Pilot Only Cut His Face

Snarling a single-engine plane in a mass of guy wires and power lines, a private pilot walked away from the wreckage near the Novato airport yesterday with only facial cuts.

The plane severed a 60,000 volt PG&E wire and set off this chain reaction.

Blacked out about 250 homes north of Novato and put KCBS off the air for several minutes.

Ignited a two-acre brush fire along Highway 101.

Barricaded the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

Robert L. Barger, 35-year-old San Francisco purchasing agent for Matson Navigation Co., was attempting to land at the Marin County Airport about 1:30 p.m. when his rented plane ripped into the wires.

Snapping the 30-foot high line the plane plunged into the ground nose first. The tricycle landing gear and one of the main wheels crumpled.

Fifty feet of wire whipped about the left wing and fuselage scorching black patches on the wing.

It tore through the cockpit canopy, missing Barger's head by inches.

Badly shaken, Barger clambered out of the cockpit and was taken to Marin General Hospital. He was treated for cuts and abrasions on his neck and face and released.

A grass fire, started by the arcing wires, was extinguished by Novato firemen.

PG&E crews restored the power to nearby homes and the KCBS transmitter and pulled the line from the railroad tracks before the next train arrived.

Damage to the four-seater Cessna was estimated at about $4,000.

Barger, a member of the Alpha Flying Club of San Carlos, had rented the plane there. He was alone in the plane.

3 Airmen Die In Crash; Car 'Touched' Another

Autos Hit South Of Novato

Two youthful Hamilton Air Force Base airmen were instantly killed and another died soon after in a midnight highway crash last night in the southern outskirts of Novato.

Their speeding sedan barely touched another car, but this impact threw it out of control so that it rammed an abutment of the bridge over Novato Creek south of Lamont avenue on Highway 101.

Leaving the body of the driver on the road, the car plunged down 20 feet and into the creek carrying two passengers.

Instantly killed were the driver, A/3 Jackie D. Kirk, 19, of Nashville, Tenn., and one passenger, A/3 Richard G. Nickel, 17, of McPherson, Kans.

The second passenger, A/3 Gerry D. Becker, 20, of Pullman, Wash., died an hour and a half later at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

20 KILLED THIS YEAR

Their deaths brought Marin County highway fatalities to a total of 20 for this year as compared with 13 at this time last year. The accident occurred less than a mile from where three Petaluma women were killed May 13 of this year when they hit a power pole.

All three youths were members of the 78th Ordinance Maintenance and Supply Unit. Just before taking to the road a few minutes earlier, they had enjoyed a snack together at the base, according to an air field spokesman.

They started off in a 1951 four-door sedan, and the ride north lasted hardly more than three miles. At the time of the accident at 11:30 p.m. they had passed several cars at high speed.

FELT A CLICK

Mary Louise Goodwin, 44, of Petaluma was driving a 1960 compact car northward in the right lane at an estimated speed of 55 miles an hour.

"I noticed headlights coming up from behind fast," she later told California Highway Patrolmen J. E. Halligan and J. H. Kendricks.

"Suddenly I felt a click against my car. Then another car went past on my left side, traveling much faster than I."

The woman pulled off the highway and saw the other car hit the side of the bridge ahead. Paralyzed by the sight, she remained sitting in her car while another vehicle stopped to give aid.

SOME UNSURE OF FUTURE

Burned-Out Businessmen Planning To Rebuild Soon

Store Owner Hears About Fire, Dies

John S. O'Neill of San Rafael, whose hardware business was destroyed in a half-million-dollar fire Friday, died of a possible heart attack in Oregon yesterday, shortly after he read about the disaster.

O'Neill, about 41, was president of O'Neill Hardware on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael. He lived with his wife Janet and their two sons, George and Steven, at 50 Lunda Court.

Mrs. O'Neill and Richard Winton, an employee of O'Neill, flew to Medford, Ore., last night to pick up the two See O'NEILL, page 4

Plans for immediate construction of the burned-out businesses on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael proceeded today, as firemen continued their investigation of Friday's half-million-dollar blaze.

Joseph B. Rice, owner of the business building that burned down in a spectacular fire Friday evening, negotiated today with insurance companies, and owners who had businesses in the destroyed building, in hopes of beginning plans for construction of a new building within the week.

It was also learned that there were actually eight, rather than six businesses reported in the building. The Rafael Floor Covering and Appliance, Inc., although retaining the same name recently divided ownership, with the appliance division becoming a separate business. Also, on the upper story of the building an office was released by the Family Publications, Inc., owned by Jerry J.

Frazier of Fairfax, said Rice. "There are some 70 persons who today are unsure of their future because of the fire," said Rice, "and we intend to erect a new building on the same property as soon as it can be done, to get these people who have suffered this misfortune back into business."

"It is my request that their suppliers and customers have patience during the interim period with those who have lost so much in the destruction of the building," Rice said.

He said no formal estimates of damage had yet been determined, but the figure of $500,000 by Robert S. Logan, co-owner of O'Neill and Logan Hardware which was lost, "was a close estimate."

San Rafael Deputy Fire Chief Vance Trivett, who along with other firemen and police investigators combed the ruins all day yesterday and today, reported that no decision had

Police Car Wrecked, Speeder Gets Away

A San Anselmo police officer chased a car at speeds up to 90 miles an hour from San Anselmo to San Rafael early Sunday, only to lose him on a turn when the patrol car collided with an oncoming car.

Officer Alan Perry, 22, of 24½ Willow Avenue, Fairfax, started the chase when he saw a car run a stop sign at the Sir Francis Drake-Miracle Mile intersection and head east about 2 a.m. speeds until the car turned off Second street in San Rafael and onto Francisco Boulevard, presumably heading for Highway 101.

Perry applied the brakes to negotiate the turn and his patrol car spun into an oncoming car driven by Wayne Silvey, 617 C Street, San Rafael. Neither Perry nor Silvey, who is employed by the Bergman Mfg. Co., San Rafael, were injured.

The speeder got away.

Medical Care Measure Goes To President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a controversial medical care bill to benefit needy persons over 65.

The house had approved the compromise legislation Friday on a 368-17 vote.

President Eisenhower was expected to sign it into law. The measure would provide federal grants to help the 50 states pay for medical care for persons over 65 who are on relief rolls or are unable to pay for proper medical attention.

One feature, an amendment to social security laws, would allow retired workers to earn more than $1,200 a year on a carefully graduated scale without sacrificing as much of their social security benefits as they must do now.

Medical care features of the bill fall far short of plans advocated by the two presidential candidates. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has supported a broader program similarly financed by federal-state grants. Sen. John F. Kennedy, (D-Mass.), endorsed a program to be paid for by higher social security payroll taxes.

Americas Session Condemns Reds, Cuba Envoy Walks Out

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—The meeting of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States drew to a close today after condemning the campaign of the Soviet and Chinese Communists to use Cuba as a willing springboard into the Americas.

The conference by a 19-1 vote last night also rejected a Cuban resolution calling on the United States to refrain from aggressive acts against Fidel Castro's regime.

When the ministers also turned down a Venezuelan proposal to water down the anti-Communist "declaration of San Jose," Foreign Minister Raul Roa and the rest of the Cuban delegation walked out of the conference and packed for home.

It was the second walkout of the two-week conference. The delegation from the Dominican Republic quit the meeting Aug. 20 after the other ministers found Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's regime guilty of plotting to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt and voted political and economic sanctions against the Dominican Republic.

"Two dictators gone—one from the left, one from the right," one diplomat remarked after the Cuban walkout. But he and others wondered about the effects on the 70-year-old inter-American system. Some felt the ministers' tough action would restore public faith in the system. Others

Archbishop Of Philadelphia Dies At 72

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—John Cardinal O'Hara, archbishop of Philadelphia and spiritual leader of 1,513,000 Roman Catholics, died yesterday at the age of 72.

The tall slender prelate, who received the red hat symbolic of his office in December, 1958, from Pope John XXIII, succumbed at Misericordia Hospital. He had undergone surgery for peritonitis last Tuesday.

His death reduced to five the number of cardinals in the United States. They are Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, Albert Cardinal Meyer of Chicago and Aloysius Cardinal Muench of Fargo, N. D.

All but Cardinal Muench who is in Rome, are expected at the Solemn Pontifical Mass to be celebrated at the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul.

The funeral service probably will be held on Labor Day.

The six-foot, one-inch, 140-pound cardinal came here from Buffalo, N.Y., eight and a half years ago to succeed the late Dennis Cardinal Dougherty as archbishop of a 10-county archdiocese in southeastern Pennsylvania, fourth largest in the country.

"I have no program to announce, nothing to preach but the love of God. If you will kindly tell me your needs, I shall do my best to meet them. I know of no other way to serve," he said when he came.

Gen. Doolittle Warns Hard Work Needed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"We as a nation have had it too good for too long," Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle told a meeting of scientists today. "I am afraid we have almost lost our past willingness to work hard and our ability to think clearly," Doolittle said.

"Our unwillingness to work is indicated by our desire for security without effort. Our inability to think is indicated by willingness to let others think for us."

The retired general, board chairman of Space Technology Laboratories, gave the keynote address to 1,000 at an Air Force symposium on Ballistic Missile and Space Technology.

Admitting the remedy cannot be popular, Doolittle called for national sacrifices.

"The investor must be willing to risk his money for a smaller return," he said. "Industry must produce more at a lower profit. The laborer must be willing to do a full day's work for a day's pay without featherbedding."

Jacksonville Mayor Declares Emergency

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—After two days of racial violence, emergency police powers were in effect in Jacksonville today, Negro leaders called off sit-in demonstrations at downtown lunch counters.

A wave of vandalism swept through Negro sections last night, climaxed by the throwing of fire-bombs—glass bottles filled with kerosene—into a grocery, a curb market and an automobile. No one was hurt and damage was minor.

WINDOW BROKEN
A gang looted a filling station and terrorized the attendants.

Windows were broken in more than 15 stores as bands roved the city in cars throwing bricks and other missiles.

Police arrested 138 persons—twice the number for a normal Sunday.

Police said gangs of Negro juveniles were responsible for most of the trouble.

"This violence is the stuff they'd like to do all the time," Miller said. "The present situation has merely afforded them the opportunity."

EMERGENCY POWERS
Mayor Haydon Burns invoked emergency police powers. He banned any street gathering of more than four persons and unnecessary auto traffic.

A Negro mass meeting yesterday called for a federal investigation of the racial violence.

An estimated 1,400 at the meeting shouted approval of a resolution asking President Eisenhower and the Department of Justice to investigate. The group vowed to continue picketing "until we have accomplished our objectives."

But later the Jacksonville Youth Council of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People called off sit-ins.

"We do not do this out of fear of physical injury but to allow responsible citizens of the community, colored and white, an opportunity to marshal the forces of reason and common sense so that peace and order may be preserved," the council said.

Rodney Hurst, council president, said, "If no positive effort to establish lines of communication between both races is forthcoming in the near future and no steps taken to redress our grievances we will have no recourse except to resume public demonstrations."

In the meantime, he said, Negroes will be asked to refrain from buying in downtown Jacksonville stores.

Board President Lloyd Rittiner and three other members said they would ask a conference with U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright this week to request the delay.

The fifth member, Emile Wagner Jr., opposed the idea. He said he would ask Gov. Jimmie Davis to close the public schools rather than accept integration Sept. 7.

Judge Wright last May ordered the board to integrate the schools, starting with first grades. Two weeks ago, Gov. Davis took control of the schools to prevent integration.

Last Friday, a three-judge federal court heard arguments on two suits, one by Negro leaders and the other by 31 white parents, seeking to keep the state from interfering with the integration order. State Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion was cited for contempt when he staked out of the hearing, contending procedures approved by the judges violated his constitutional rights.

Saturday the judges issued their sweeping decision. The ruling, in effect, was that the schools must be integrated without state interference.

They decided: Gov. Jimmie Davis must not attempt to block the integration order; Davis must restore control of the schools to the school board; and that the Louisiana segregation laws involved in the case were unconstitutional.

BERLIN (UPI)—West German Communist Leader Max Reimann, in an apparent attack on Red China, has denounced opponents of Russia's "peaceful coexistence" policy as imposters who aid the enemy, it was disclosed today.

Reimann compared opponents of coexistence to Trotskyites, militarists, Jesuits, and right-wing Socialists in what is believed to be the most violent red attack so far on Red China's belief in the inevitability of war.

Gate Commute Books To Sell For $1 Less

Starting Thursday Golden Gate commute books will go on sale for one dollar less.

The books will sell for $8 instead of the present cost of $9 announced Dan E. London, president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

The 52-trip book that is good for a 90 day period will bring the cost of a trip across the bridge to 15.3 cents, London said, making the average Golden Gate Bridge toll the lowest of any toll bridge in the San Francisco Bay waters.

Transit Plans Mailed To Communities

A plan calling for 909 million dollars for approximately 100 miles of first stage construction for a five-county rapid transit system and 17 million dollars for purchase of 30 additional miles of rights of way beyond the initial terminal have been tentatively approved by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Copies of the plans were mailed today to every county supervisor and city councilman in the Bay Area.

The county and city officials will be given 90 days (until Dec. 1) to study the plan and submit recommendations for changes or modifications to the district, announced John M. Peirce, district general manager.

The plan must be approved by the boards of supervisors of Marin, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Francisco and San Mateo counties before it can be submitted to the voters in a general obligation bond proposal Peirce said.

The first stage construction would extend north across the Golden Gate Bridge to a terminus at Santa Venetia. Rights of way are provided to Novato in Marin County and to the Santa Clara County line to the south.

of a parkway which will fulfill the two vital needs of commercial and private transportation and preservation of the beauty of the redwood forests."

When completed the new freeway will replace 25 miles of the winding present road through the redwoods about 35 miles south of Eureka.

Brown, who praised Joseph Knowland and "the heritage which he has left to all of us," declared the state's "basic premise is to open up new vistas to the people." Highways, he went on, must be built to engineering principles, but the state must strive "equally to preserve scenic beauty. He called the money spent on the redwoods "a farsighted investment in a natural asset."

Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti of Eureka responded to the governor's remarks.

HUNT BLOND GUNMAN

Body Of Kidnaped Waitress, 17, Found

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—A pretty waitress kidnaped by a blond gunman from a lover's lane four days ago was found dead in a well at an abandoned farm house yesterday. She had been shot through the head.

The FBI, which took over the investigation from local authorities, apparently was without a major lead toward the identity of the killer.

The kidnaper fled with Mary Lily Ellen Roberts, 17, in a green and white car after seriously wounding her fiancé, John Bryant Jr., 20. The couple had been parked at a remote spot in a wildlife refuge near Carbondale.

That was 18 miles southwest of the weed-choked farm where the body was found.

The FBI roped off the area, frequently used by picnickers, for a painstaking search for any articles the killer might have left. A spent cartridge and a blood-stained mattress found near the well were to be analyzed.

The body was brought out of the well.

'Fill It Up,' Bandit Says At Gas Station

"Fill it up," said the man who walked into the Flying A service station in Ignacio at 1:40 a.m. yesterday.

He didn't mean a car. He meant the canvas bank bag he was carrying. To back up his demand he pointed a revolver at the head of attendant Robert Mercer, 21, of 24 Nave Court, Novato.

Mercer, in the station office, told the man that all the cash was outside at the cash box near the pumps. He told sheriff's deputies he worked as slowly as possible, handing over about $40 in cash, but no pennies or nickels, as the thief demanded. He didn't get $60 in a safe.

Mercer was told to walk south and not to look back. He walked about 100 feet, turned, saw no one and neither heard nor saw a car.

Authorities today were looking for a bandit about six feet tall, about age 30, medium complexion, dark hair and with a scar on his right cheek.

Big Avenue Of Redwoods Dedicated—An Old Highway But A New Idea

I-J Special Report

DIYERVILLE (Humboldt County) — The governor and many top officials of the State of California gathered on a sandbar in the Eel River near here Saturday to dedicate a highway scores of years old, which winds through a forest thousands of years old.

The unique ceremony wasn't recorded by radio microphones and television cameras. Few newspapers were represented. Yet the event marked a new policy for the state.

Leo Carillo, actor and member of the State Parks Commission, explained the policy this way: "California now has the high road and the low road, the highway and the by-way."

He was referring to the "Avenue of the Giants," which was being dedicated that day. A stretch of the Redwood Highway which meanders through the Humboldt redwoods north of Weott had been by-passed by a modern divided freeway, yet the state was retaining the narrow, twisting roadway purely for its scenic and recreational value. The state was constructing and maintaining two highways leading to the same places, one for commerce, industry and fast traffic, the other for tourists.

All this had not come about by accident. Forty years ago the state had not owned a single redwood tree, all of them were in danger of the lumberman's saw.

Today, the state owns 23,400 acres of redwoods in the one 20-mile stretch edging the Redwood Highway through the Humboldt fir trees.

Many of the men responsible for this change gathered for the ceremonies. They lined up in the chairs of honor behind a low, curving redwood split rail fence.

Master of Ceremonies Will Rogers Jr., chairman of the State Parks Commission, stood behind a podium hewn from a redwood log to introduce many of them. In front of him on the large gravel sandbar, sat some 200 persons. Behind him, rising in a solid curtain of green, 150 feet into the air and as far on either side as one could see, was the redwood forest. He introduced such men as:

Joseph Knowland, Oakland publisher and for 20 years chairman of the parks commission.

Newton Drury, retired chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks, known as "Mr. Redwoods."

Arthur E. Connick, president of the Save The Redwoods League, which 40 years ago organized to raise the private funds to preserve the trees.

High state officials were there too.

J. C. Womack, new state highway engineer; Charles DeTurk, who replaced Drury as chief of beaches and parks; John Carr, director of finance; DeWitt Nelson, director of natural resources.

And there were Marinites there too.

T. Fred Bagshaw of Mill Valley, deputy director of public works; Frank Myer of Pt. Reyes Station, president of the Shoreline Highway Association; Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Dunshee of Ross, two of the county's leading conservationists and active Save-The-Redwoods members.

Sen. Carl L. Christensen of Eureka, who carried legislation for the Avenue of the Giants in the Senate, called the dedication an assurance "that all of the assets of our state will be devoted to the interests of all the people of the state."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown pledged that state government would "remain true to the trusteeship of these great redwoods. He said that the just-completed part of the new freeway which complements the Avenue of the Giants is "just the first stage

NEXT INTO SPACE?—Sheba, the Dachshund puppy, won't be the next, but got in on the missile conversation between Capt. Roy Lefstad (left) and Lt. Col. A. A. Satellite Aide Tells Training, Preparation

By ELLEN FERNANDEZ

An Air Force captain sat in a San Rafael home yesterday and described the years of training, preparation and "sweat" which go into putting a satellite into outer space.

Capt. Roy Lefstad is project officer for the Discovery series of satellites being launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base. He and his family are visiting Lt. Col and Mrs. A. R. Hayman, 8 Espalda Court.

Lefstad was pictured on newspaper front pages from coast to coast as he shook hands with another Air Force captain who recovered the Discoverer 14 satellite in the air.

Lefstad is the Air Force officer in charge of "coordinating" the civilian scientists and technicians to whom he gives primary credit for orbiting number 14 and the other Discoverer satellites.

The captain checks the weather, the status of satellite-tracking stations around the world and local conditions. Technicians are checking out the satellite which Lockheed, as primary contractor, has produced in Sunnyvale. The Thor missile which will push it into space is readied by Douglas technicians. All ultimately are Lefstad's responsibility.

Lefstad says "turn the key on my mark—5, 4, 3, 2, 1, mark," and the key is turned. The automatic 13-minute countdown for the Thor begins, including automatic fueling and been reached as to how the fire started.

He said, however, that it may have begun in the center of the building where heating system was located.

"We have nothing definite on either the location or the cause today," said Trivett. "But investigation will be continued."

Francisco Boulevard was opened up by the Department of Public Works this morning, but a special police guard is still assigned to protect the fire area.

Larkspur Bond Meet Tonight

The organizational meeting of a citizens committee to work for passage of Larkspur School District's proposed tax rate increase will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the multi-purpose room of Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera.

Trustees of the district have set an Oct. 11 election on a proposed tax rate increase from $1.75 to $2.50 assessed valuation. Board members and school administrators will be on hand at tonight's meeting to answer questions about the need for the tax rate increase.

For the Discoverer 14, which was caught as it returned from space by a pole and wire apparatus dangling from a C-119 cargo plane on August 19, there was a change in the routine.

Firings at Vandenberg are scheduled so that they will not down when trains, on the civilian tracks which cut through the base, will be passing through.

But the electronic equipment being centered on the Explorer 1 balloon passing over the base temporarily disrupted Vandenberg equipment. Lefstad turned and ordered a few minutes delay for "another train whose arrival and departure we can predict a lot better than the Southern Pacific."

The Discoverer went up and out, all equipment functioning smoothly, Lefstad remembers. Then the "sweat" began, as the satellite made 17 orbits of the earth, headed back to the atmosphere and finally was caught, the first mid-air recovery of a space object.

Lefstad has been in charge of 15 launchings, including about half of the Discoverer series and the rest in the Matador series of missiles "when we actually mashed the buttons" for take off.

He has been working with missiles since 1951, first at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, at Cape Canaveral, as commander of the San Salvador Auxiliary Air Force in the Bahamas and at Vandenberg since 1959.

Lefstad has studied electronics as a civilian Air Force employee for five years and has a background of familiarity with automatic pilot equipment in planes.

He and Hayman became acquainted when they lived next door to each other at Patrick Air Force Base four years ago. Hayman is with the Army engineers.

Lefstad is fascinated by the work, says he wouldn't trade it for a civilian job.

He likes "all of it—because it's new, because it's growing, because we learn something every minute."

Bartender's Last Night; He's Stabbed

It was William J. Harrison's last night working as a bartender at Denny's Barrel House in San Francisco's Fillmore district last night.

Before he left his house at 114 Hawthorne Avenue, Larkspur, his wife, Louise, begged him not to go. But Harrison went for his last day of duty.

Two hours before closing time, a rowdy patron stabbed Harrison in the chest when the bartender tried to eject him, police said.

Harrison, 47, was treated at Park Emergency Hospital for a stab wound of the lower left chest, and released.

AIRMEN

his wife Dorothy were apparently at the scene.

Kirk's body lay at the south end of the bridge abutment on the right or east side of the highway, with the left front door. The car had swerved violently and broadsided into the concrete structure.

DOOR RIPPED OFF
After ripping off its door and flinging Kirk out, the tangled wreckage of the car had hurtled off to the right and plunged into the creek. Nickel had been thrown out and lay in the water by the south bank of the creek.

Baker was extricated from the car, placed in an ambulance and rushed to the base hospital where he died at 1:15 a.m.

Patrol examination of the Goodwin car, which was found parked on the east highway shoulder 100 feet south of the bridge, disclosed that the sole sign of impact was a small dark transfer of blue paint from the Kirk car on the extreme left end of the rear bumper.

During the weekend northern California traffic accidents took a dozen lives, but the death of the airmen was the worst single crash.

Nervous System's Role With Allergies Explained

by Dr. Robert W. Pearce

Children and adults who are overly sensitive to certain food, cloth, hair, or perhaps pollen in the air are said to have allergies, perhaps you are allergic to something yourself.

Have you ever wondered why only some people are allergic to strawberries or eggs? And why others are able to eat all the strawberries and eggs they want?

The blame or cause of the allergy cannot be the food or pollen since some people are not bothered at all. The trouble then is something within you.

Big Marin Ranch Put Up For Sale

The 2,500-acre Lake Ranch northwest of Bolinas is up for sale for two and one-half million dollars.

Owner of the vast timber, grazing and recreational land is William Tevis, world famous polo player who lives in San Francisco. The sale does not include the exclusive Bolema Club and its 1,100-acre land which Tevis leased to Douglas Hertz.

Man Killed By Elevator

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Vincenzo Scocci, 35, died early today several hours after he was crushed between a sidewalk elevator and the pavement at the Standard Oil Co. building here.

Police said Scocci, riding the basement-to-sidewalk elevator with another scavenger, was standing so close to the edge that he was pinned under the concrete sidewalk as the elevator reached street level.

The other man quickly reversed the elevator and as it started down Scocci fell eight feet into the elevator pit.

Access to the ranch is off Shoreline Highway between Bolinas and Olema, over a long winding road that leads through miles of timber land. The Lake Ranch has about a half dozen freshwater lakes and about two and one-half miles of Pacific shoreline.

Tevis will retain the Bolema Club, where he has a clubhouse and recreational facilities for duck hunting, trout fishing, pheasant shooting, horseback riding and other sports.

Thugs, Beat Rob Wealthy Contractor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two armed men savagely beat and robbed a wealthy San Francisco contractor of about $7,000 early today shortly after he returned from a trip to Las Vegas.

Police said Meyer Rosenberg, 60, operator of Bernal Construction Co., was struck at least eight times on the head with axe handles and may have suffered a fractured skull. He was reported in serious condition at a San Francisco hospital.

Rosenberg told officers the robbers were waiting for him in his office when he brought back a pickup truck he drove to Las Vegas. They had already ransacked the office, he said.

Ancient Skull Discovered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nearly three decades of crawling around a remote African canyon have paid off for a British scientist with the discovery of a 600,000-year-old human skull, the National Geographic Society reported today.

Dr. L. S. B. Leakey, curator of the Coryndon Museum in Nairobi, Kenya, discovered the skull of the earliest known human being — "East African man"—in the Olduvai Gorge of Tanganyika. His work, sponsored by the society, was reported in the current issue of its magazine.

Leakey and his wife have been digging in the sun-baked east African canyon for years. The British scientist began the work in 1931 with another archaeologist, the late Hans Reck.

As the battle against the Foresthill and Donner Ridge blazes settled to mopping-up operations, the forest service set up a demobilization headquarters at Mather Air Force Base 11 miles east of here.

Ralph Bangsberg, in charge of the demobilization, said he expected to pay off and claim equipment from 4500 firefighters in four days. He estimated the cost of keeping each flame fighter going at $60 a day.

As the two major fires smoldered their last wisps of smoke from 90,000 acres of blackened timberland, state firefighters attacked a new 1800-acre brush blaze in Lake County and expected control by noon today.

Of several fires which broke out over the weekend, only the Lake County blaze still was unchecked. State fire dispatcher Robert Weaver said it was 70 per cent ringed this morning.

If You Fail To Register, You've Failed As A Citizen

There is one thing in politics about which both parties agree. They want every person, eligible, to be able to vote.

The highest elected Democratic office holder in the state, Gov. Edmond G. Brown, and the highest Republican office holder, Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan, have gotten together to urge every possible person to register so they will be able to vote in November.

Both the Democrats and the Republicans in Marin County are conducting registration drives.

The county clerk has agreed to put special voter registrars on duty over the weekends in easily accessible places like bus terminals, banks and supermarkets.

What's all the fuss about?

There's not much time left. Right now, with the campaign hardly started and with few fireworks so far, the time for voting seems far away. Somehow it doesn't seem important yet.

All that will change. As the campaign tempo increases, interest will mount. People will get excited about who is going to be our next President and who will represent us in the Congress, the State Senate and the State Assembly.

When many of these people, interested and anxious to vote, get ready next November, they will find they are not eligible. Why? Because they did not register NOW.

There are only three days more than two weeks in which you can register. Deadline for voting Nov. 8 is Sept. 15. If you aren't registered by that time, you can't vote.

Many people who have voted regularly in the past will find themselves disqualified, too. If you have moved, you must re-register. If you didn't vote in the last two elections, you must re-register. If you're in doubt, call the county clerk and check.

But whatever you do, don't fail to be registered by the deadline. November's is one of this country's most important elections to date. You should play your part in our republican form of government.

If you fail to register, you've failed as a citizen.

An Internationally Beloved Flower

Geraniums are such a common Marin flower it is hard for native Marinites to believe that in less mild climates they are treasured in green houses.

Although geraniums are found in temperate zone countries throughout the world, they cannot survive severe winter cold. In Marin, however, they are so tough and sturdy that it is almost an axiom that geraniums thrive on neglect.

No one needs to be told what geraniums look like. They are so common some Californians regard them as a sort of harmless weed. But, like so many things, they are not appreciated by some Marin gardeners because they are so easy to grow here.

Perhaps if these Marinites realized the trouble to which some people go in order to have the blooms of this internationally beloved flower, they would show more affection for the petaled gem in their own back yard.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

GENEROSITY ALWAYS WINS

Helping thieves to push an automobile he discovered to be his own was the unique experience of one man in Madison, Wisconsin, not long ago.

When the car in which two teenagers were riding stalled in a busy downtown street, a sympathetic spectator offered a helping hand.

But just as the automobile began to roll, the man suddenly noticed that it was his own car that he was generously helping to push.

The young men lost no time in waking up to the same fact and rapidly took to their heels, escaping into a nearby alley.

Never underestimate the surprising effects that come from being generous with God or man.

You always help yourself in one way or another when you strive to help others. This generous man might never have recovered his own stolen automobile so quickly if he had ignored his impulse to lend a helping hand to those in distress.

"Give and it shall be given to you."

(Luke 6:38)

Deepen in me, O loving Savior, a sincere desire to be as generous to others as You are with me.

Pound For Pound, If You Eat Like A Baby You'll Be A Big Fat Tub

NEW YORK (P)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you ate like a baby, you'd soon have a figure like a tub. Pound for pound, a month-old infant needs more than twice as many calories as a grown man.

What is the most common U.S. disease? Tooth decay. It affects 19 of 20 persons.

If someone gave you a million bucks in new one-dollar bills, it would take you at least eight hours a day, to count it. But can you think of a better way to spend your time?

Quip of the week: Robert Q. Lewis says, "Khrushchev seems to be trying to make a dead duck out of the dove of peace."

The rising cost of government is a big factor in the rising cost of living. Taxation now takes nearly 30 cents of every earned dollar.

Actor Glenn Ford has an unusual clause in his movie contract. It says he doesn't have to wear make-up unless he chooses to.

If you want to feel safe from rabies go to New Zealand. No case of the disease ever has been reported there. No rabies in animal or man has been known in Norway since 1809, in Ireland since 1903, in Britain since 1922. But in 1958 alone India reported more than 50,000 rabid dogs, and the United States 1,643.

Americans now drink one cup of tea for every three cups of coffee.

IF YOUR GROCERY bill is higher, it may be because supermarkets are getting more attractive. Five years ago the typical shopper spent 18 minutes on each supermarket visit. Now the visits last 27 minutes.

Although more than 80 million American adults say they are church members, only one man in seven and one woman in five claims to have read the Bible clear through.

THIRTY-SIX per cent of all U.S. women over 35 now have jobs outside the home. Among them are 164 bank presidents.

Novato Council Must Take Stand

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In view of the recent development involving the litigation concerning the Novato Community Club, it is interesting to speculate just where the City Council stands on this issue. It is obvious that Al Bowman has not the slightest regard for or interest in seeing that the Community Club itself continues to exist. His only concern seems to be in the value of the property.

It is understandable that the City Council would be interested in receiving such a valuable piece of property for a possible civic center site. This, of course, would enhance the value of the real estate adjacent to this area. I wonder who is the principal land-owner in the downtown area adjacent to the Community Club?

As Mr. Bowman is spearheading this drive to give the property to the city, does the council endorse his questionable tactics. I refer specifically to the recent incident whereby Mr. Bowman contacted the employer of one of the board members in an attempt to coerce him from further participation in the affairs of the Community Club.

There are 230 members in the Novato Community Club, Inc., and very few support Mr. Bowman's purposes. Whether they like it or not, the City Council is going to have to take a stand on this issue, and I hope they will concern themselves with the feelings of the vast majority of the members . . .

Misapprehensions Need Correction

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Your public comment on my letter regarding the church tax exemption is a proper one deserving a reply. The fact that the Constitution guarantees certain rights to individuals or corporations does not deprive the Legislature of the right to establish a reasonable procedure to be followed in availing oneself of this guarantee and also to provide that a failure to follow this procedure shall constitute a waiver of the right.

For example, the Constitution guarantees to citizens of this state the right to vote. The courts have always held that the Legislature has the right to prescribe reasonable procedures which all voters must follow in order to avail themselves of this constitutionally guaranteed privilege. The courts have further held that failure to follow this procedure constitutes a waiver of the right to vote even though it is a right guaranteed by the Constitution itself.

The Constitution does not attempt to prescribe the manner of registration. It only prescribes the time thereof. It is left to the Legislature to establish whatever other reasonable regulations regarding the registration procedure it may desire to prescribe.

The same principle has been applied to the church exemption, the veteran's exemption, the welfare exemption and the other constitutionally guaranteed tax exemptions. The courts have specifically held that although these exemptions are rights guaranteed by the Constitution, a reasonable procedure must be established for claiming these exemptions.

It is for this reason that the Supreme Court of this state has upheld as fully constitutional those provisions of the Revenue and Taxation Code which deprive a veteran, a church, a hospital, an orphanage, or any other welfare institution, of their tax exemptions if they fail to file the necessary claim before the statutory deadline. In the case of Chesney vs. Byran, 15 Cal. 2d 460, the Supreme Court of this state expressly held that the failure of a veteran or a church to file the claim for exemption prior to the statutory deadline constituted a waiver of this exemption for the tax year involved. The court held that this was a "reasonable regulation and control of a constitutional right."

The point I am trying to make is that whether you or I disagree with the philosophy of the Supreme Court decisions, they still constitute the highest law of this state. It is fundamental in our system of jurisprudence that the meaning to be given to any constitutional provision, in the last analysis, is to be decided by the California Supreme Court.

Since the Legislature has directed that county officials deny the tax exemptions to those otherwise entitled to it if they fail to file a timely claim, and since the California Supreme Court has stated that this is a constitutional directive and must be followed by county officers, how can you justify criticism of county officers for following this directive?

I feel that it is important for persons in positions such as yours to fully understand the reasons for actions taken by public officials. These actions are often extremely unpopular and naturally produce criticism such as that originally made by the Independent-Journal on this subject. Such criticism is to be expected.

On the other hand, I feel that public officials can perform a public service by trying to correct any misapprehension of the legal reasons which sometimes compel such actions.

Mr. Birdseed threw restraint to the wind and bought himself a four-seater airplane. Came a bright Sunday and he invited the bachelor next door to go up in it with his wife and himself.

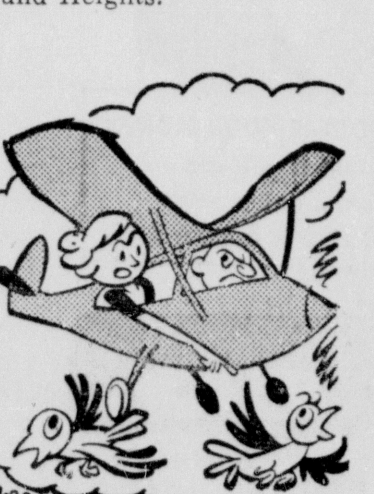

"The great thing about flying up here in the wide blue yonder," he exulted to his bachelor friend, "is that I don't have to worry about traffic jams, crazy pedestrians or traffic lights—and best of all, there's no back seat driving."

Just then his wife, seated in the rear, looked out of the window and cried, "Robert! Look out for those birds!"

Overheard in the garment center: "I wanted my son to inherit my business—but the government beat him to it!"

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Mill Valley's 'Rebel' Librarian Was Colorful—Knew What She Wanted

Back in the '20s and '30s when the red bricks on the Mill Valley Public Library were newer, there was a rebel librarian in charge named Sybil Nye.

Rebel is used affectionately. Miss Nye was controversial, colorful and—she knew what she wanted.

The Nye story — although some 22 years ended—reflects an interesting period of the library which is soon to celebrate its 50th anniversary, having survived the 1929 fire, influenza epidemics and the handkerchief book thief.

All books after the smallpox and Spanish influenza epidemics had to be fumigated. One small room in the library was used for this purpose until the '30s.

THE TIMES show in a library—readers dropped off at the time of the fire as they did after the depression ended. Miss Nye explained the latter readership drop as "due to the fact that more people are now employed and have more money for other activities."

A high school boy took four new books from the library in 1923 and was traced by Police Officer Ted Thorn-dyke by the laundry mark on the handkerchief he had left behind.

Then there was the hat rack case. In Miss Nye's days, library trustees kept a tight rein on the money. Miss Nye had a petty cash fund but had to have board approval for large expenditures.

She decided the library needed a hat rack. She first requested it in June, 1918. Subsequently, all of her monthly reports to the board said such things as "the hat rack is very conspicuous by its absence."

Finally, in April, 1919, the hat rack was delivered but, alas, it was the wrong color. "It doesn't match the library furniture," said Miss Nye.

It is now in the staff room.

MISS NYE also asked the board if she could replace the feather duster. In 1929 she told the board the checker-board squares were "just about all white." She asked for two new boards.

In 1930 she suggested a garden room. In 1931 she got a line on some old seats from the Mountain Railway for $2 apiece for the garden room. No action. In 1952, 14 years after Miss Nye had left, the garden room was created.

Miss Nye asked the board for six weeks summer leave in 1919 to "keep me in touch with modern thought which I can get in no other way." She said she was afraid of becoming narrow-minded unless she had some opportunity of viewing life from another standpoint. The leave was granted.

She asked permission to hire a substitute or close the library on Tuesday nights in 1922 to allow her to attend gym classes at Tamalpais High School.

MISS NYE once told the library board that "the library is not used by any of the city council members and so, at present, they are not in a position to know what our needs are." (The council had to approve the library budget.)

Miss Nye's position was declared vacant in December, 1938, when the board decided to hire a qualified graduate of a library school. In spite of a petition signed by 345 persons, she was not reinstated.

The librarian, who died in 1958, often visited schools to talk to children and invite them to story hours which she held. Today there is a Sybil Nye Memorial Book Collection at the library made up of Caldecott Medal Books.

ONE STORY perhaps typifies the rebel in Miss Nye. She was on a trip to Yosemite when she was about 70 and accidentally fell down into a ravine. She remained there four days, able to get drinking water from a creek. Finally she was detected by rangers when they saw splashes of water from pebbles she was throwing into the creek. The colorful librarian loved poetry, the story goes, and kept up her spirits by reciting poems.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Behind Powers Trial Were Two Major Purposes Of The Russians

WASHINGTON—Two pieces of evidence well reveal the purposes the Soviet Union hopes to attain as a consequence of the carefully managed trial of U. S. pilot Gary Powers.

The purposes are:

To sell the world on the idea that the United States is intent upon aggression and war and is thereby threatening the safety of its allies.

To drive the U. S. from the bases in every country in Europe and Asia which presently form the bulwark of the defense of the free world.

THE DEVELOPMENTS which best showed the political goals behind the Powers trial came at its climax.

One was the interlocking script from which both the prosecution and the defense addressed the Moscow court. They both argued for the guilt of the American pilot and they both centered their attacks upon the United States.

The other development was the broadcasts from Radio Moscow, beamed to the world immediately after the sentencing of Powers and warning America's allies that their only safety was to sever their defense ties with the U. S. before it was too late.

AS THE TRIAL neared its end and it was impossible to detect the difference between the Soviet prosecutor and the Soviet defender of Powers.

"Defense" counsel Mikhail Grinyov described young Powers as "one of the perpetrators of a perfidious and aggressive action" by the U. S. Each tried to outdo the other in exhorting the highest officials of the American government. Both regretted that they were unable to bring President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, and Secretary of State Herter to the Soviet dock as "sinister" men who are scheming to "touch off a world war."

After which Radio Moscow went instantly to work.

In one broadcast directed to Asia, it "explained" that the mutual defense bases were not to protect the free world but were "tools of militant American imperialism."

Another, beamed to the Western hemisphere, pictured the Kremlin as a "Leninist peace-loving nation" whose patience with the West was wearing thin, but struggling manfully to preserve tranquility while the U. S. was using its allies as "pawns of aggression." It then admonished our allies to cease "offering their territory" to the United States—or suffer the consequences.

THESE SOVIET themes need to be refuted because they are repeated so often.

The Soviet Union's distaste for the long successful U-2 flights is understandable. We would be equally annoyed. But its synthetic indignation, which it generated for the Powers trial, will make an appeal only to those who wistfully think that the free world is safer the more it disunites its common defense.

The U. S. stands ready to open its own skies to U. N. inspection and to reduce armament any time the Soviet Union will join in an enforceable agreement. It was not the West which walked out of the Geneva disarmament talks.

"You're going back to college at the most crucial period in our history . . . the world is changing fast . . . we need men with ideas to meet the challenges . . . the nation is counting on YOU . . . !

63 Die In Africa Air Crash

DAKAR, Senegal (UPI) — An Air France super constellation circling for a third attempt to land at Dakar airport in a blinding rainstorm crashed into the Atlantic with terrific impact today, killing all 63 persons aboard.

An American official at Dakar said that according to available information no Americans were aboard although the passenger list contained nine Anglo-Saxon names. Airline officials said it was believed these were all British.

More than six hours after the crash, French Navy craft had recovered 30 bodies. All were mangled and their clothes had been torn off when the big plane hit the sea and exploded.

The plane had 55 passengers and eight crew members aboard on a scheduled flight from Paris to Dakar, Monrovia, Liberia, and Abidjan, Ivory Coast.

Three helicopters, two French Navy seaplanes, a dispatch boat and several freighters took part in the search. The morning rain stopped and the search went on under brassy blue skies and in crushing West African summer heat.

Dinghies spotted near the place where the plane lay on a sandy bottom in 60 feet of water turned out to be empty. They apparently were released automatically when the plane hit the water as it was turning to make the third attempt to land at the Dakar airport. It had made two previous unsuccessful attempts to land in the driving rain.

Rescue officials said the condition of the bodies made it appear that the plane exploded when it hit the water.

The plane left Paris at 9 p.m. yesterday.

At 6:35 a.m. today, the plane's pilot, Lucien Boirre, a veteran of 20,000 flying hours, checked in over Dakar, his first scheduled stop after Paris.

Heavy rain clouds hung low over the airport and a downpour of tropical rain was pelting the countryside.

The plane made two attempts to land on the airstrip, just inland from the Atlantic Ocean, and then roared off to sea again to make a turn and a new approach.

Car Firm Files $30 Million Slander Suit

WILMINGHAM, Del. (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. today filed a $30 million libel and slander suit against Sol A. Dann, a Detroit attorney, in superior court here.

Dann previously brought suit against Chrysler, charging irregularities on the part of top officers of the firm.

The Chrysler libel suit charged Dann with trying to "undermine and destroy the confidence and faith" of Chrysler dealers and stockholders.

The suit said Dann had acted out of "malice and for the deliberate purpose of injuring the corporation." It asked the court to assess punitive damages plus $30 million damages for "false, malicious and defamatory" statements by Dann.

Earlier Chrysler at Detroit had issued a statement accusing Dann of "borrowing" some of the charges included in his suit against the firm from an earlier Chrysler suit filed against Ben Stone and others.

Dann filed suit against Chrysler here Aug. 12. The action came after Chrysler had filed a suit here seeking to recover profits reaped by Stone.

Hallinan Says Pilot Will Serve 5 Years

U-2 pilot Francis Geary Powers probably will not serve more than five of his 10-year sentence according to Vincent Hallinan, former Progressive Party presidential candidate and attorney of Ross who was an observer at Powers' trial in Moscow.

"Powers can petition the court at any time for a remission of his sentence," Hallinan said yesterday. "I doubt if he will serve longer than five years the maximum."

Hallinan visited Powers in prison during his two-week stay in Moscow and said that the pilot's spirits were high and that "he appeared to be a brave and honorable man," UPI reported.

The attorney said that Powers didn't know if he was shot down while flying at 68,000 feet on a reconnaissance mission over Russia. "He remembers the plane falling and dropping with it for a long while before baling out," Hallinan said.

Powers told the attorney that the day after he was brought to Moscow he was taken on a tour of the city by Soviet officials.

Broker, Wife Jailed In Inverness Melee

A prominent Hillsborough investment broker and his socialite wife were arrested after a melee in an Inverness apartment during the weekend.

Free on $367 bail today are Edison Ames Holt, 63, and his attractive blonde wife, Jane, 38.

Both are active in Monterey and Carmel social circles and have large land holdings on the Monterey Peninsula.

Bleeding profusely from deep cuts about his head, the grey-haired Holt was found lying on the floor of an upstairs apartment over Caval's Wharf Saturday night.

They had been vacationing there for the past 10 days.

Mrs. Holt, who suffered a slightly swollen left hand and bruised ankle in the scrap, was standing over him.

Deputy William S. Christensen said blood was splashed about the floor, walls and sheets. Furniture was scattered about the apartment.

Following treatment at the Medical Building in Point Reyes Station, the couple were taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of assault and battery, disturbing the peace and drunkenness.

The district attorney's office today filed a complaint on the disturbance charges alone. The couple is scheduled for arraignment in municipal court at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

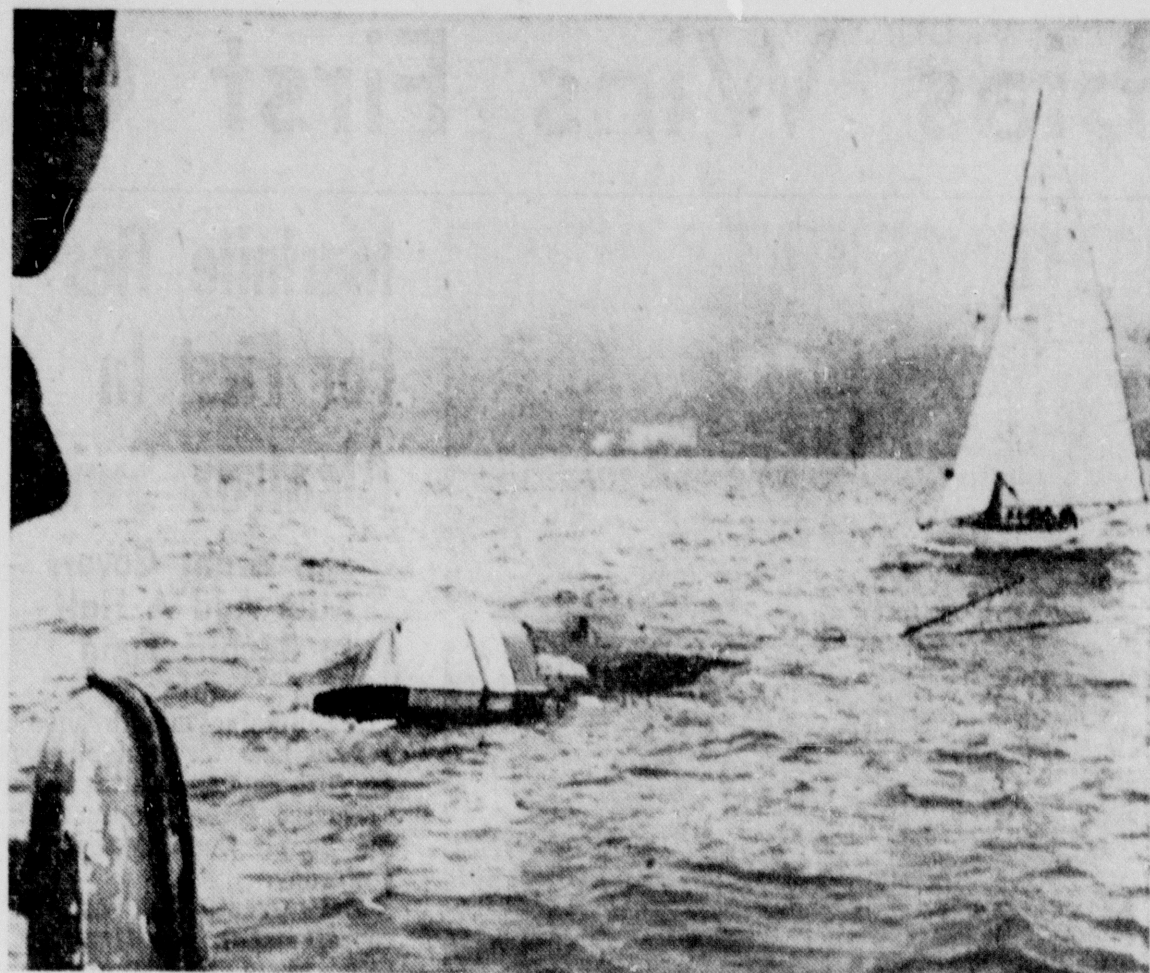

The apartment battle was the second time deputies had been called about the Hols Saturday.

Three hours before they had answered a call of the couple beating each other and wrestling in the middle of the road near the Drake's Arms Tavern in Inverness.

They arrived to find Holt and his wife sitting in their car resting.

RAMMED BY FREIGHTER—Guiseppe Messina was found dead by his 40-foot fishing boat Sea Maid after it had been rammed by the inbound German freighter Karpfanger outside the Golden Gate yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Fisherman Dies In Ship Collision

Spectators aboard two Marin County vessels watched in horror as a San Francisco fisherman died in a collision between his 40-foot trawler and an incoming German freighter one mile out of the Golden Gate at noon yesterday.

Aboard the sightseeing vessel Blue Spirit owned by Capt. Russell G. Lewis of Sausalito were 47 passengers enjoying the view in clear weather from half a mile out of the Gate.

James C. Reisinger of 6 Edgewater, Belvedere, observed from his 40-foot sloop Rascal a quarter-mile from the disaster that just before the freighter Karpfanger rammed the fishing vessel Sea Maid, the fisherman's wheelhouse was not occupied by its owner Guiseppe Messina of San Francisco.

Willis J. Fowler, bar pilot handling the Karpfanger, said he was running parallel to the Sea Maid before turning to starboard to go under the Golden Gate Bridge. The Sea Maid cut across the Karpfanger's bow by turning the same way still more sharply, he said.

The Karpfanger, bound for Oakland with Hawaii pineapple, gave two warning whistle blasts just before the vessels struck.

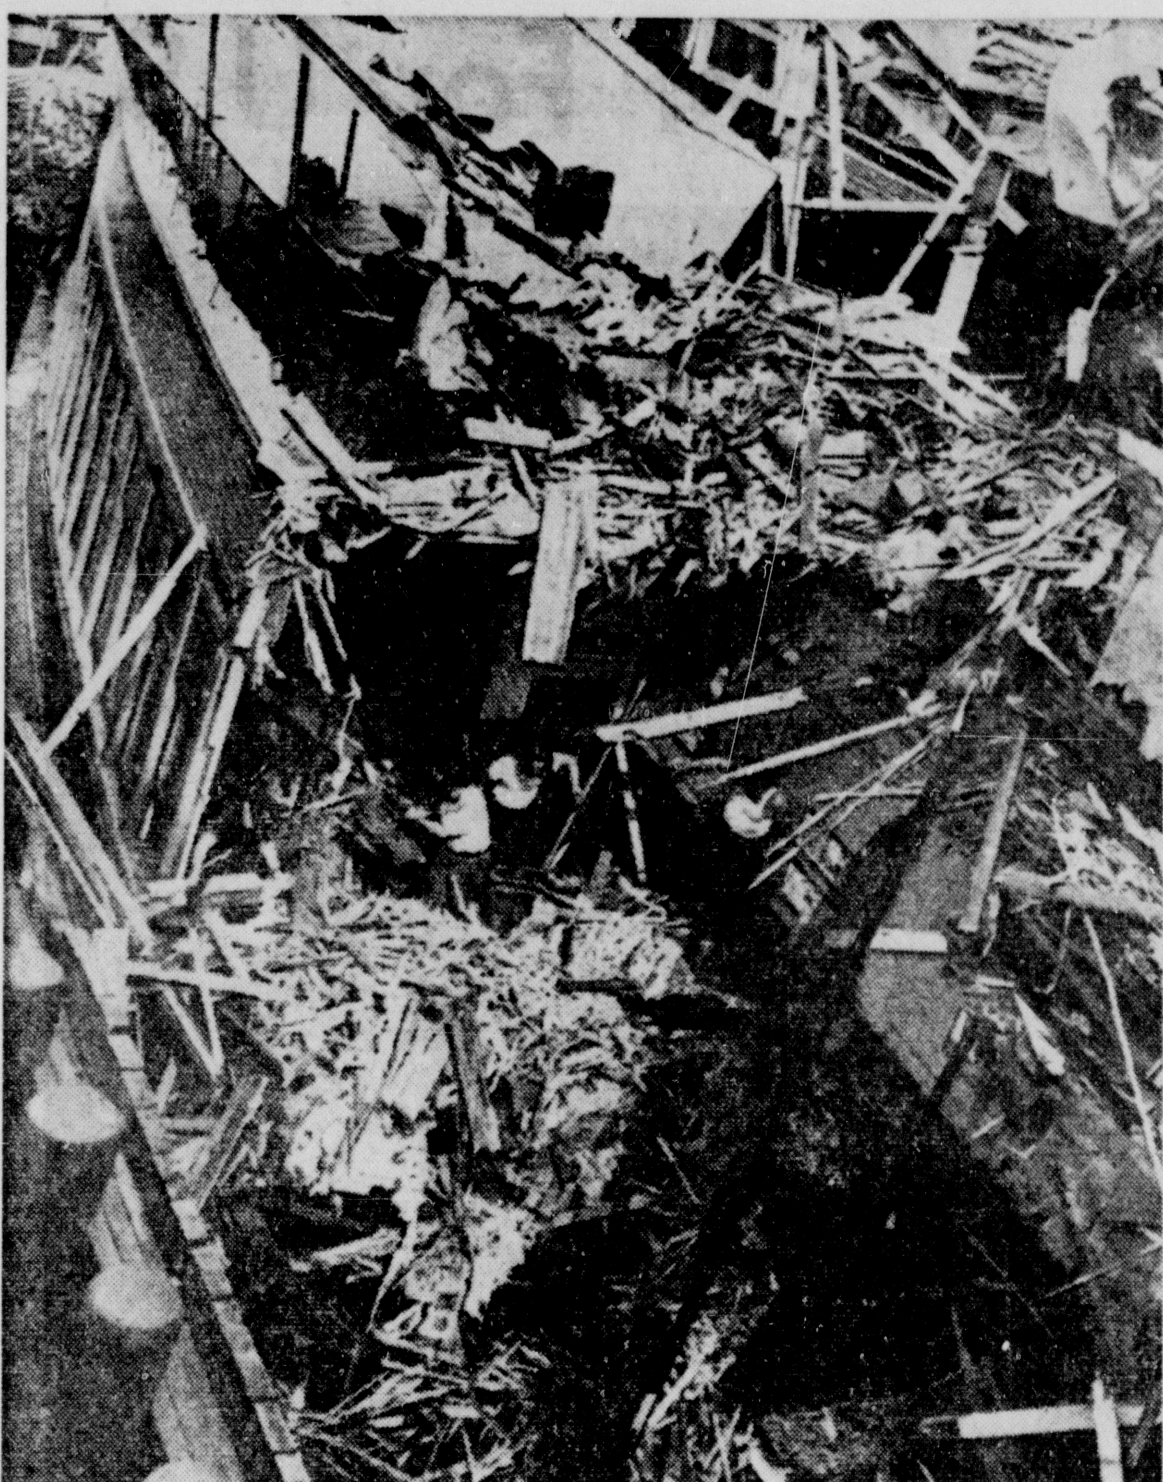

The fishing boat floated upside down. The freighter paused, then proceeded as other nearby vessels went to the rescue. Messina's body was soon taken from the water but he was already dead, apparently drowned.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis announced today that they were starting a benefit fund for Messina's widow.

"Mrs. Messina was recently released from the hospital," said Lewis. "We who operate boats out of Sausalito and San Francisco want to help her in any way we can."

Contributions may be sent to Lewis Excursion Co. in San Francisco or Sausalito.

Burglars Take Hi-Fi, Radios Worth $1,250

Burglars with an ear for music stole five radios and a high fidelity set from two neighboring houses in Tamalpais Valley yesterday. Total loss was $1,250.

They propped a ladder against the house of Neal K. George, a school teacher, at 150 Harvard avenue and crawled in through a window.

Inside, they messed up the rooms and took $941 worth of radios, cameras, watches and linens.

Creeping in through an open window at the home of Daria Phillips, 133 Harvard avenue, the burglars stole three radios and a high fidelity record player worth a total of $300.

Two Convicted Of Hunting With Lights

Two Petaluma youths were convicted in the Justice Court at Pt. Reyes Station today for hunting deer by spotlight on a north Marin ranch Saturday night.

Wendell Bowman, 22, James Payne, 18, and a third juvenile who is awaiting a hearing at Marin County Juvenile Court, were arrested on the Dolcini Ranch, Marshall and Petaluma Road, Saturday night by State Fish and Game Warden Russell Ild on a charge of jacking deer.

Judge David R. Baty fined each hunter $250, revoked his hunting license for three years and confiscated the rifle, ammunition, spotlight and deer carcass.

Two Marinites Retire From Army

Two San Rafael men were among 35 reserve officers and three master sergeants honored at a retirement parade and review of troops Friday on the main parade grounds at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Heading the group was Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson of 72 Manderly Road. General Hudelson commanded the 40th Infantry Division early in the Korean War.

Capt. Vernon R. Prichard of 115 Du Bois Street, an officer in the Intelligence Section of the Sixth Army Headquarters, was also being honored.

Other reservists from Marin who planned to attend the review are Col. Cyrus K. Dam of 45 Buena Vista, Corte Madera; Col. Melvin A. Zazzi of 179 Vista Grande, Greenbrae; Col. Joseph Rodrigo of 130 Nadina Way, Lt. Col. Theodore J. Lehmann of 23 Acacia Avenue, and Lt. Col. Francis C. Rockey, 765 Del Ganada Road, both of San Rafael.

Cargo Ship, Ferryboat Collide Off Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP)—A large cargo vessel and a ferryboat carrying hundreds of passengers collided today in a Hudson River fog off lower Manhattan.

At least 13 persons were taken to hospitals. One woman was reported seriously injured.

The vessels were the Seatrain Georgia and the ferryboat Chatham crossing the river from Hoboken, N.J., to Manhattan.

A 60-foot hole was gashed in the ferryboat's right side. Tugs nudged her to a Manhattan ferry slip at Chamber St., where passengers and vehicles were disembarked. The craft was then moved to another pier. Bracing ropes were attached to keep the Chatham from sinking. The craft is operated by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

Passengers said there was no panic aboard although some persons rushed for life preservers.

The Seatrain Georgia apparently was not damaged and proceeded to her pier at Edgewater, N.J., about two miles from the collision scene. The vessel, carrying about 85 loaded railway freight cars, was en route from Savannah, Ga. The ship is 503 feet long, is registered at 8,325 gross tons, carries a crew of 45. She is operated by Seatrain Lines Inc.

The hole in the side of the ferry extended from the upper deck into the metal hull below the waterline at the engine room. The collision occurred at 9:15 a.m.

Roy O. Wanvig, 64, of New York, the ferry captain, said he first saw the Seatrain Georgia at a distance of about 800 feet.

Asked what he believed to be the specific cause of the collision, Wanvig replied: "It was the fog situation. We had cut down our speed and I don't know."

The Weather Bureau said visibility on the river was about one-quarter of a mile.

Lunch Program Planned For Girls

A lunch-time program for all new girl students will be hosted by Tamalpais High "big sisters" Sept. 6 after a minimum day schedule. Principal Richard L. Campion announced today.

All new students will report Sept. 6 at 9 a.m. to Mead Theater for a welcome assembly and to get program cards. Students will meet with teachers according to their schedule for brief periods to receive orientation on school procedures and to become familiar with classroom locations, Campion said.

School will be dismissed Tuesday at 12:30. No special bus schedule will be run.

Regular classes will be held on Sept. 7. A 9 a.m. all-school assembly will be held in Mead Theater where new teachers and student body officers will be introduced. School will be dismissed at 3:30 p.m., regular closing time for the coming year.

There will be no pre-period classes on Wednesday.

Diving Star Tobias Wins First Gold Medal For U.S.

American Basketball Powerhouse Rolls On

ROME, Aug. 29 (AP)—Gary Tobias, a battling Trojan from the University of Southern California, gave the United States its first gold medal of the Olympic Games by winning the springboard diving championship in a dramatic duel with Mexico's Juan Botella.

Tobias, a 25-year-old, six-footer from Glendale, came from behind on the final two dives to nose out stubby Sam Hall of Ohio State with a total of 170.00 points against 167.08 for the 23-year-old from Dayton.

But with only two dives remaining both of the Yanks had been trailing Mexico's Botella, and Botella was second with one dive remaining. But the Yanks finished one, two as the Mexican fell back to a final point total of 162.30 points.

The awesome U.S. basketball team romped to its third straight lopsided victory and Carolyn Schuler of Orlando, set an Olympic record in the women's butterfly swim today to further offset Russia's first gold medal of the Olympics.

The Soviets beat the United States to the punch in gold medals when Antonina Serebina won the women's 500-meter canoe race, while America still was looking for its first victory.

But Oscar (Big O) Robertson and big Jerry Lucas took turns leading the U.S. basketball team to a 107-63 romp over Hungary to give a sign of a triumph to come, and then the 17-year-old Miss Schuler became the second U.S. girl to crack an Olympic mark in swimming.

The husky, dark-haired Miss Schuler led all qualifiers in the women's 100-meter butterfly swim when she won her heat in 1:09.8 to break the Olympic mark of 1:11.0 set in 1946 by America's Shelley Mann. Carolyn Wood of Portland, Ore., also won a heat in 1:11.

It was another day of heat—and competition, temperature and controversy.

Max Ritter, U.S. delegate to the international swimming federation, announced that a second protest would be made on the "fingertip" decision awarded Australian John D. Vitt over America's Lance Larson in Saturday night's 100 meter freestyle final "on the basis of TV films and improper judging."

Germany's Ingrid Kramer, a 17-year-old "Dresden Doll," who defeated favored Paula Pope for the Olympic springboard title, took a 1.60 lead over the American beauty in the high diving elimination round which ends with two unlimited dives tomorrow afternoon.

The battle among Hall, Tobias and Botella thrilled 10,000 sun-blistered spectators in the scenic Olympic swimming pool and they roared impartial approval as Botella took over the lead on the first of those three last-ditch dives. At this stage the Mexican had 128.29 points compared with 125.15 for Tobias and 123.11 for Hall.

Then came another dive with a hush settling over the stadium and now it was the tall, slender Tobias who surged into the lead with a daring reverse two-and-one-half somersault which boosted him to 148.67 points. Botella clung to his heels with a 147.46 total and Hall hung on at 145.21.

Hall, the bantam Buckeye, gave it a game shot with a final two-and-one-half reverse somersault twist to pick up 21.87 points and run his final total to 167.08.

But it was not enough.

For Tobias pulled off a 21.33 effort with the same dive and won it with his 170.00 total as Botella attempted a final and very difficult two-and-one-half backward somersault with tuck which could have taken it all but failed and earned only 14.84 points for a third place total of 162.30.

Cub's Suit Against Billy Martin Worries Other Owners Of Clubs

P. K. Wrigley's action in filing that $1,040,000 suit against Billy Martin has other National League baseball club owners worried because it invites a counter-suit from the Cincinnati second baseman.

There would be no chance whatsoever of Wrigley and his co-plaintiff, Cub pitcher Tom Brewer, satisfying judgment even if victorious in their quest for $520,000 damages each—$260,000 actual damages and $260,000 punitive damages.

On the other hand, as the lawyers would say, there is a lot of gum money behind the Cubs even though the baseball team doesn't show any big profit at the end of each season.

Wrigley personally is not a plaintiff in the action—at least not under that name. The suit was brought in the name of the Chicago National League Ball Club, Inc., which Wrigley owns, and the 20-year-old south-paw pitcher, Brewer, a legal minor.

BASIS FOR the suit was the incident that occurred August 4 in Wrigley Field. After one of Brewer's fast balls went behind Martin's head, the fiery Cincinnati player "lost" control of his bat and it sailed between the mound and first base. Brewer came off the mound and Martin clobbered him.

A general mixup of Cub and Cincy players ensued. One of the Cincy players was Martin's roommate, Cal McLish, who got in at least one punch but took a pretty good rib beating himself—enough to send him to the Cincinnati training table for several days.

Brewer, seriously injured, was sent to the hospital where he still is recuperating after two operations to correct damage to the orbital bone bordering the eye.

Was it Martin's punch that did the damage to Brewer's orbital bone or an errant blow that followed in the general throwing of fists? Was Martin the instigator when he "lost" his bat after the behind-the-head pitch or did Brewer invite the trouble by leaving the mound and walking toward Martin as he was retrieving his bat?

These are questions that certainly will be asked at the trial—if it ever reaches that stage. What at first seemed like a simple rhabarb suddenly has turned into a complicated legal stew with that fancy million dollar plus figures which prompted Martin to crack: "How do they want it by cash or check?"

BECAUSE THEY do not want to antagonize an already angry N. L. co-owner, none of the other franchise holders is going to make any on-the-record comment about Wrigley's action. But their attitude of watchful waiting is not one of approval.

Unless Martin secretly owns some gushing oil wells, Wrigley and Brewer have about as much chance of collecting the damages they ask as a circus fat lady would have in wriggling into one of those girdles designed for young ladies who don't need them.

If, by chance, Martin does answer with a counter-suit and is successful in his claim that Brewer, as the pitching agent of the Cub baseball team, was throwing at him, there wouldn't be much difficulty in finding Cub assets that would satisfy a judgment.

It has all the one-sided appearances of a fellow who actually has a million, challenging a fellow, whose chief asset is his charge-a-plate: "I'll bet you a million."

Ken Venturi Is Winner At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ken Venturi fashioned his fourth straight sub-par round yesterday to win the $30,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

He fired a 69 to add to previous rounds of 65, 69 and 68 for a 72-hole total of 271 over the par-70 North Hills Country Club course.

Venturi picked up $4,300 first money and a chance to rib Arnold Palmer, this year's leading money winner, who finished in a third place tie with Bob Goalby at 274, good for $1,850 each.

Billy Casper, the hefty veteran from Apple Valley, finished second at 273 and took $3,000 second money.

"This is my first victory since January and I'm very happy," Venturi said. "Maybe I shouldn't be too happy, though. Palmer wins so much that everybody goes into mourning when he loses."

Venturi added: "I told him (Palmer) in the locker room it would be nice to see a new name in the paper for a change."

The victory was Venturi's second in the Milwaukee Open. He captured the event in his first year as a touring pro in 1957. This year he ranks just behind Palmer among the top money winners with $41,821. Palmer's earnings went over the $75,000 mark Sunday.

Mill Valley Nine Edges Out S. F. Jeffersons, 9-8

The Mill Valley Merchants were outbitten by the San Francisco Jeffersons, but squeezed out a 9-8 win on the Mill Valley diamond yesterday.

Woody Slatt went the distance for the Merchants and was touched for 13 hits. But only three of the runs off him were earned.

Mill Valley got but nine hits. But the locals took advantage of nine San Francisco errors.

Bill Jambois led the Merchant hitting with two triples. Russ Adams also blasted a three-bagger.

There will be no game next weekend, but on Sept. 11 the annual old-timers' game is scheduled for Mill Valley.

Olson Faces Stiff Test In Comeback

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Carl (Bobo) Olson, former world middleweight champion, takes another step along the comeback trail Wednesday night when he meets undefeated Doug Jones in a 10-rounder in Chicago Stadium.

Olson currently is ranked sixth in the light heavyweight division by the National Boxing Assn. The 32-year-old San Francisco veteran has won all three of his fights this year, two by knockouts.

Jones is 23 and turned professional only two years ago. He is the No. 4 light heavyweight.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC starting at 7 p.m.

Carlos Ortiz, a Puerto Rican fighting out of New York, defends his world junior welterweight championship Thursday night in Milan, Italy, against Duilio Loi of Italy. The bout is set for 10 rounds.

Ortiz recently scored over Loi by a decision in San Francisco, so he will rule the favorite. The contract provides for another bout—this one in the United States—should Loi win.

World featherweight champion Davey Moore retained his title tonight in Tokyo by gaining a unanimous decision over Japanese challenger Kazuo Takayama in their 15-round title match.

Moore punished Takayama, the ninth ranking contender, severely with terrific left and right punches to the body but was unable to score a knockout.

There was not a single knockdown during the entire fight.

Northern California Tourney Concluded

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—George Archer of Harding Park won the Northern California Golf Assn.'s 1960 Class A Medal Play Championship yesterday as he shot 78 and 69 on the final 36 holes for a 72 hole score of 290.

Archer took the title from defending champion Verne Carlson of Sacramento.

Marin Ties For First In Alcatraz Swim

Jim Grant Covers Mile And A Half In Record Time

A San Rafael man finished in a dead heat for first place in the fifth annual Alcatraz to San Francisco Swim sponsored by the South End Rowing Club yesterday.

Jim Grant, an insurance representative for New York Life, swam the approximate mile and a half from off Alcatraz to the foot of Hyde Street, in 35 minutes and 30 seconds.

IDENTICAL TIME

Bob Cunningham, a San Francisco school teacher, covered the distance in the identical time.

The winners set a new mark for the swim despite water conditions with veteran competitors and observers described as "the roughest ever."

Winner Grant agreed that "it was really tough going this year."

The former record was 37 minutes flat, held by Ron Reata and set last year.

SECOND MARINITE

A second Marin entry in this year's event, Norm Petersen, a sheet metal contractor residing in Fairfax, also finished well, taking third place. His time was an excellent 35 minutes and 50 seconds. Times of other swimmers who finished ran up to over an hour.

It marked the fourth time that Grant had participated in the tough Alcatraz race and the third start for Petersen, but the first time either of the Marin men had captured first place honors.

The 80-year-old South End Club has another yearly event, the one-mile Golden Gate swim, scheduled for Oct. 16 to complete its season.

S.F. Realtors Edge Out Tiburon Nine

The Tiburon Pelicans dropped a 10-inning cliffhanger, 5-4, on their home diamond at Judge Field to visiting Realm Realty of San Francisco yesterday.

The San Franciscans scored the winning run in the top of the 10th on a double, a short single, and a sacrifice fly. Tiburon came back to load the bases in the bottom of the 10th on two hits and a walk, but couldn't move the tying tally across home plate.

Buzz Wensloff pitched the entire distance for Tiburon and deserved a better fate.

The S.F. nine boomed off to an early lead on a first inning home run with two men on. The realtors added another run in the fourth on two singles, a stolen base and a wild pitch. The Pelicans did not get a hit until the fifth. But then Fred Thurman cracked the scoring ice with a lead-off home run.

Tiburon pushed across three runs in a wild sixth inning that involved a triple by Steve Jones two walks, a balk, an interference with a batter by the S.F. catcher, an infield error, and a stolen base.

The Pelicans will play at home again this Sunday, but will not have a home game on Labor Day.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

High Cost of Accidents

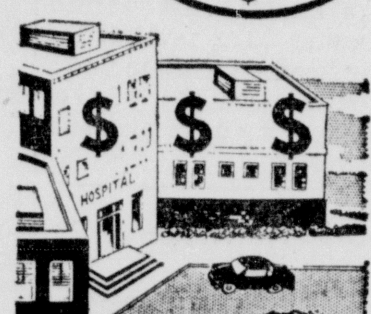

- Premature Greying
- Blackstrap Molasses

Q. I have three children, all less than 5 years old. Hardly a week goes by without one or the other getting hurt. I know there is no such thing as "anti-injury" medicine but surely something can be done—but what?

A. Eternal vigilance on the part of parents and other adult members of the family is probably the only sure way to reduce the drain on health, happiness and pocketbook that results from childhood injuries.

Q. What causes premature greying of the hair?

A. Greying of the hair is accepted as a sign of aging but this neither answers the question nor helps us understand the process. The cause is unknown. A doctor examined almost 4,000 dark-haired persons ages 9 to 92 and concluded that the greying process starts in childhood and continues throughout life. However, it is usually not until men reach 30 to 34 and women 35 to 39 that the greying process becomes rapid. An interesting sidelight is that eyebrow greying precedes eyelash greying in men whereas the reverse is true for women.

Q. I use blackstrap molasses because they say it contains a lot of iron. Is this true? What is it good for?

A. Blackstrap molasses is the final liquid end product in the manufacture of sugar and is used principally by fermentation industries and as cattle feed. Although such molasses is a good source of iron and calcium, nutritional authorities say that it does not have the special or mystical properties claimed for it by some food faddists.

Alou's Hot Streak Gives Giants Lift

Fleet Outfielder Key Man In S. F. Drubbing Of Milwaukee Yesterday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When Felipe Alou finally got his big chance with the San Francisco Giants, he made the most of it—with the possibility he'll hit that .300 batting mark before the 1960 season winds up.

On July 20, the fleet outfielder from the Dominican Republic became a regular for the Giants against the Philadelphia Phillies, the club that opens a two-game series against San Francisco at Candlestick Park tonight.

On that date, Felipe was hitting a puny .183 with 15 hits in 82 trips to the plate. That included three doubles, two triples, one homer and nine runs batted in.

Since he became the regular left fielder, Alou has hit .328 with 50 safe hits, nine doubles, a triple and five homers. He's knocked in 21 runs during that period and stolen seven bases. Yesterday, the Giants walloped the second place Milwaukee Braves 15-2. Alou drove in a pair of tallies in the six-run fourth inning with a double and added a single in the seventh.

"Best of all, he can really play that left field position," enthused Manager Tom Sheehan.

For the entire season, Alou now is hitting .277.

"I think he can hit .300," said Sheehan. "And for a full 154-game season, it could be above that."

"Playing regularly, that's the difference," says the 25-year-old who joined the Giants in 1958.

"I'm getting to see the pitchers. When I hit against Lew Burdette on Saturday it was only the second time I had faced him."

Last year Alou played right field when left-handers were pitching for the opposition, but left-handed hitting Willie Kirkland went in against right-handers.

"With all the right-handed hitters on our club, it wasn't very often we faced left-handers," says Alou who hits from the right side.

When the Giants went into their big slump, Sheehan decided Alou should have his chance. Orlando Cepeda went back to first base from left field and Alou went in to stay.

Orlando was one of the hitting stars Sunday as he knocked in three runs, as each of the Giants hit safely at least once and scored at least once in a 17-hit attack.

Jack Sanford, the winning pitcher, singled home two runs in the sixth-run fourth and Alou doubled in another pair. Willie Kirkland's 15th home run of the season brought in two runs in a four-run sixth.

Tonight the Phillies, who started the Giants' slide, were slated to pitch Art Mahaffey against Mike McCormick, the 21-year-old southpaw seeking his twelfth victory of the campaign.

Sanford notching his eleventh triumph and his two-run single helped hand Bob Buhl of Milwaukee his eighth setback of the campaign against a dozen triumphs.

The crowd of 34,948 in Candlestick Park boosted the home attendance mark to a record 1,605,871 compared with the Giants' previous record of 1,600,871 at New York's Polo Grounds in 1947. Including tonight's game against the Phillies, the San Francisco club has a dozen left at home.

Young Swimmers Given Trophies

Marin Golf Club Swim Director Elsie B. Dillon Saturday presented trophies to 12 outstanding youngsters in the club's series of junior swimming competition.

The Weekend: Wonderful For Yanks But A Tough One For The Pirates

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It was a near-perfect weekend for Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees, but a perfectly miserable one for Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Off-hand, you wouldn't be able to tell by the standings because the Yankees lead the American League by only two games while the Pirates top the National by 5½. Nevertheless, Stengel is cheering and Murtaugh is fretting.

The reason for Casey's joy is that the Yankees came through a back-breaking weekend of three straight doubleheaders in pennant-winning style. They swept a twin-bill with Cleveland Friday, did it again on Saturday and split with Detroit yesterday. Tigers won the opener, 6-2, but the Yankees took the nightcap, 8-5.

As far as the Pirates were concerned, it was a lost weekend all around. They not only lost to the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday and Saturday, but yesterday also, 5-4, and now own a four-game losing streak.

Charley Dressen, Milwaukee's eternal optimist, says "somebody is waiting to overtake Pittsburgh and it could be us."

But his optimism is hard to understand in the face of San Francisco's 15-2 victory over Milwaukee yesterday. The defeat left the Braves 5½ games out in a virtual tie with the Cards. The Cincinnati Reds downed the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-3, and the Chicago Cubs beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-6, in other N. L. games.

The Baltimore Orioles gained a half game in their bid for the A. L. lead with a 3-1 win over the Chicago White Sox, the Indians snapped a five-game losing streak with a 9-1 triumph over the Washington Senators, and the Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from the Kansas City Athletics, 2-1, and 5-4.

Errors by Tony Kubek and losing pitcher Eli Grba in the first inning of the opener helped the Tigers to five unearned runs and the Yankees never were able to catch up. Frank Bolling hit a three-run homer to spark the five-run rally and Rocky Colavito followed with his 26th of the season. Don Mossi won his ninth game although he pitched only five innings.

A barrage of four Yankee homers helped Art Ditmar score his 14th win in the nightcap. Dale Long hit his first homer as a Yankee in the second inning and John Blanchard also connected in the same frame. Mickey Mantle belted his 31st homer in the fifth and Yogi Berra followed with his 14th. Al Kaline of the Tigers collected six hits in seven trips during the double dip.

The Orioles' victory over the White Sox was marked by a wild rhabarb in the eighth inning when an apparent three-run homer by pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski was nullified because umpire Ed Hurley had called time. Given another chance to bat, Big Klu flew out.

Milt Pappas won his 12th game although Hoyt Wilhelm came in to put down a ninth inning uprising. The Orioles got to Early Wynn for two runs in the second inning on a walk, two singles and a sacrifice fly, then added another run in the fifth.

Home runs by Jim Piersall, Tito Francona and Vic Power sparked the Indians to their victory over the Senators. Barry Latman won his third game with help from Johnny Klippstein. Tex Clevenger was the loser. Power drove in four of Cleveland's runs with three hits.

The seasoned, capable Australians—who now go to Forest Hills, N.Y., and singles competition—showed top form yesterday with a surprisingly easy victory in the finals of the U.S. National Doubles.

Don Buddin's squeeze bunt gave Boston its two runs in the opener as big Frank Sullivan pitched a five-hitter for his fifth victory. Reliever Mike Fornieles singled home the winning run in the eighth inning of the nightcap to record his ninth victory against three defeats. Dick Hall and Ken Johnson were the losing pitchers.

Joe Cunningham's sacrifice fly capped a three-run rally in the fourth inning and proved to be the winning run for the Cards against the Pirates. Cunningham and Hal Smith each drove in two runs for the Cardinals while Alex Grammas contributed a homer and three singles. Curt Simmons won his fifth game although he yielded to Lindy McDaniel in the seventh. Harvey Haddix was the loser.

The Giants poured it on with 17 hits against the Braves, including a two-run homer by Willie Kirkland. San Francisco chased loser Bob Buhl with a six-run rally in the fourth. Jack Sanford singled home two runs during the uprising and went to hurl a seven-hitter for his 11th triumph.

Cincinnati scored all nine of its runs in the first inning against Los Angeles and Bob Purkey breezed to his 14th victory with a six-hitter. Ed Bailey and rookie Gordon Coleman each homered in the first inning off loser Stan Williams and Roy McMillan hit a three-run homer in the same frame off reliever Ed Roebuck. It was Purkey's fourth straight victory over the Dodgers without a loss to them this season.

Ernie Banks drove in three runs for the Cubs against the Phillies to increase his season total to 103, tops in the majors. Banks drove in one run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and doubled across two more in the sixth when the Cubs chased loser Gene Conley and clinched the outcome with a five-run rally. Don Cardwell went 7½ innings for his sixth victory.

PRO FOOTBALL

Turnstyle Battle Looms In Dallas

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
 The Dallas Cowboys and the Dallas Texans, representing the rival pro football leagues in a city that did not support its last franchise, are prepared to meet in a head-to-head struggle for supremacy at the turnstiles.

With Dallas the focal point of the battle for the entertainment dollar between the senior National League and the fledgling American League, both teams are rounding into form for the regular season.

The Cowboys, a new entry in the NFL stocked with the slightly tarnished veterans of the other clubs, jelled offensively for the first time over the weekend and knocked off the Eastern Division champion New York Giants 14-3 in an exhibition at Louisville, Ky.

The Texans, apparently the strongest aggregation in the new AFL, remained undefeated by walloping Denver's Broncos 48-0 for their fifth consecutive triumph in a pre-season test at Little Rock, Ark.

OTHER SCORES

In other NFL games, the Green Bay Packers humbled Chicago's Bears 35-7, Los Angeles Rams edged the Cleveland Browns 22-17, and Philadelphia's Eagles defeated the Washington Redskins 24-6. The Boston Patriots beat the Oakland Raiders 28-14 in the AFL. Halfback Frank Clarke caught a 73-yard pass from former Redskins quarterback Eddie LeBaron and pulled in a 60-yarder from rookie Don Meredith as the Cowboys won their first game in four tries.

With quarterback Charlie Conerly on the bench, the Giants used sub Lee Grosscup, but were unable to move against the strong Dallas defense. Pat Summerall's 16-yard field goal averted a shutout.

Fullback Bo Dickinson scored three touchdowns—two in two minutes in the third quarter—to spearhead the Texans attack against outclassed Denver.

STARR SHINES

Bart Starr heaved two scoring tosses, then gave way to Lamar McHan, who fired one 75 yards to Lew Carpenter for a touchdown, in the Packers romp over Chicago. It was Green Bay's third win in a row. The Rams came from behind to defeat the Browns before 48,175 at Los Angeles with line-backer Jack Pardee pilfering a Milt Plum pass and going 60 yards for the go-head touchdown in the third quarter.

The Eagles, leading Washington 7-6 at halftime on Sonny Jurgenson's 3-yard flip to Pete Retzlaff, broke it open with a 17-point outburst in the final quarter capped by Ted Dean's 70-yard punt return for a TD.

Washington Girl Wins Golf Crown

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A girl who does everything else left handed, but plays golf the right way is the new two-time Women's National Amateur golf champ. JoAnne Gunderson, an Arizona State University senior from Kirkland, Wash., emerged the victor Saturday over Jean Ashley, 21, of Chanute, Kan., in the scheduled 36-hole final match of the 60th amateur championship of the U.S. Golf Assn. over the par-71 Tulsa Country Club course.

The score was 6 and 5 and was comparable to Miss Gunderson's 1957 title triumph over Mrs. Anne Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa. The score then was 8 and 6.

Tooth Paste Brand Wins Dental Group's Approval

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Observer-Chicago News World Service

CHICAGO — In an unprecedented action, the American Dental Association has recognized a tooth paste as having decay-preventing benefits.

SNIDER

The ADA headquarters officially accepted a fluoride dentifrice discovered by an Indiana University dental scientist and marketed commercially by Procter & Gamble Co. under the name of Crest.

The action is significant not only because the ADA has for decades refused to recognize any toothpaste, but has also implied that the public was wasting money buying it.

ADA educational materials have stressed that the tooth brush is a big preventive weapon and that baking soda or salt water are as effective as any tooth paste or powder.

As one toothpaste after another came along with lavish claims for the long-sought ingredient to curb tooth decay, the ADA promptly cautioned the public against extravagant advertising.

Toothpastes containing chlorophyll, ammonia, penicillin, detergents, germ-killers, sugar-blocking enzymes and others failed to win the much-sought ADA approval.

The official nod given to Crest is expected to have repercussions in a dentifrice market where sales exceed $300 million a year.

The endorsement is a personal victory for a 38-year-old biochemist, Joseph C. Muhler, who began working with stannous fluoride as a substitute for sodium fluoride when a sophomore dental student at Indiana University.

Although the conservative ADA continued to decline acceptance of his assertions, Muhler persisted in his research when a less determined investigator might have become discouraged.

Muhler has assigned his patent to the Indiana University Research Foundation.

Procter & Gamble, headed by Neil McElroy, former secretary of Defense, has paid almost $100,000 in royalties for the foundation's protection on the west side of the Iowa river.

Under Muhler's participation, the university has been taking substantial steps to put him in a position to advance his research.

He also has a special professor of laboratory work on the university's dental school. Muhler's advances lie ahead.

In an Observer-Blade article, he said, "Stannous fluoride is a new element in the dentist's arsenal."

Dental Group Okays Crest As Decay-Preventive Agent

The American Dental association today officially recognized Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay - preventive agent." Crest is the first dentifrice ever to receive such recognition, the association said in Chicago.

In a statement published in the August 1 issue of The Journal of the American Dental Association, the association said:

"The dentifrice manufactured by Procter & Gamble Co. under the name Crest is an aid to combat dental decay; it is not a cure-all. Nor is it a substitute for the program of preventing dental decay. Three elements were involved in the council's decision: the stannous fluoride dentifrice, the use of fluoride in the form of water fluoridation, and the use of fluoride in the form of toothpaste."

Dentists Make History

Brand Of Toothpaste Recognized As Decay Preventive Agent

Stannous Fluoride Used In Product

By RAY BRUNER
Blade Science Editor

The American Dental Association made history today. It officially recognized a toothpaste as an effective decay preventive agent.

This had never been done before by any toothpaste.

Stannous fluoride, a compound of tin and fluorine, is the ingredient in the toothpaste.

Back of the council's decision are 10 years of clinical studies. There were seven test groups, each matched by "controls."

One group used the dentifrice "under normal conditions in their home." They experienced a 57 per cent reduction in the incidence of tooth decay.

Members of the second group brushed their teeth once a day, under supervision, with a 34 per cent reduction. In a third group, with supervised brushing three times daily, there was a 57 per cent reduction in decay.

The council's decision is based on evidence considered adequate to demonstrate substantial effectiveness.

"The stannous fluoride dentifrice is an aid to combat dental decay; it is not a cure-all. Nor is it a substitute for the program of preventing dental decay."

Three elements were involved in the council's decision: the stannous fluoride dentifrice, the use of fluoride in the form of water fluoridation, and the use of fluoride in the form of toothpaste."

The ADA now recognizes three methods of obtaining benefits from fluorides:

► Fluoridation of community water supplies.

► Systematic application of fluoride solutions by the dentist to the surface of children's teeth.

► Stannous fluoride dentifrice.

Fluoridation, the ADA council stated, is by far the most desirable method of preventing decay, from the standpoint of cost, effectiveness and convenience.

Preliminary studies by the ADA suggest that a combination of the three methods may be worthwhile than one method alone.

Fluorine compounds, or "trace element" compounds, are more effective in preventing decay than teeth with an adequate amount of fluorine.

However, is fluorine deficiency a problem? The use of fluoride in the form of toothpaste decreases in effectiveness as children grow toward maturity.

Crest made news because it's effective against cavities—not because it's a cure-all

The more you read the clippings above, the more you realize that now you can do something about tooth decay with a toothpaste.

"Dentifrice found to prevent decay... won recognition from the American Dental Association... never done before." These are some of the words the nation's press used this month to tell the news of the American Dental Association's recognition of Crest* as effective against cavities.

Effective against cavities but not a cure-all

But, effective as this stannous fluoride toothpaste has proved to be, there's a lot more to good dental health than just squeezing Crest on your toothbrush.

The real key is not the use of Crest alone. But the use of Crest as part of a dental program.

The American Dental Association spelled this out in their official statement: "Crest has been shown to be an effective anti-decay dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care."

Rules for dental health still apply

And that, of course, means the complete dental program your dentist has always recommended for dental health:

1. You still should brush regularly. After each meal is best.
2. You still should brush right. Away from the gums. And make sure you brush every tooth—especially the back ones.
3. You still should watch those treats between meals. Between-meal treats can be overdone. Be sure to follow your dentist's advice.
4. You still should see your dentist twice a year. Give him a chance to spot trouble early and stop it before it gets headway.

Don't expect miracles—do expect fewer cavities

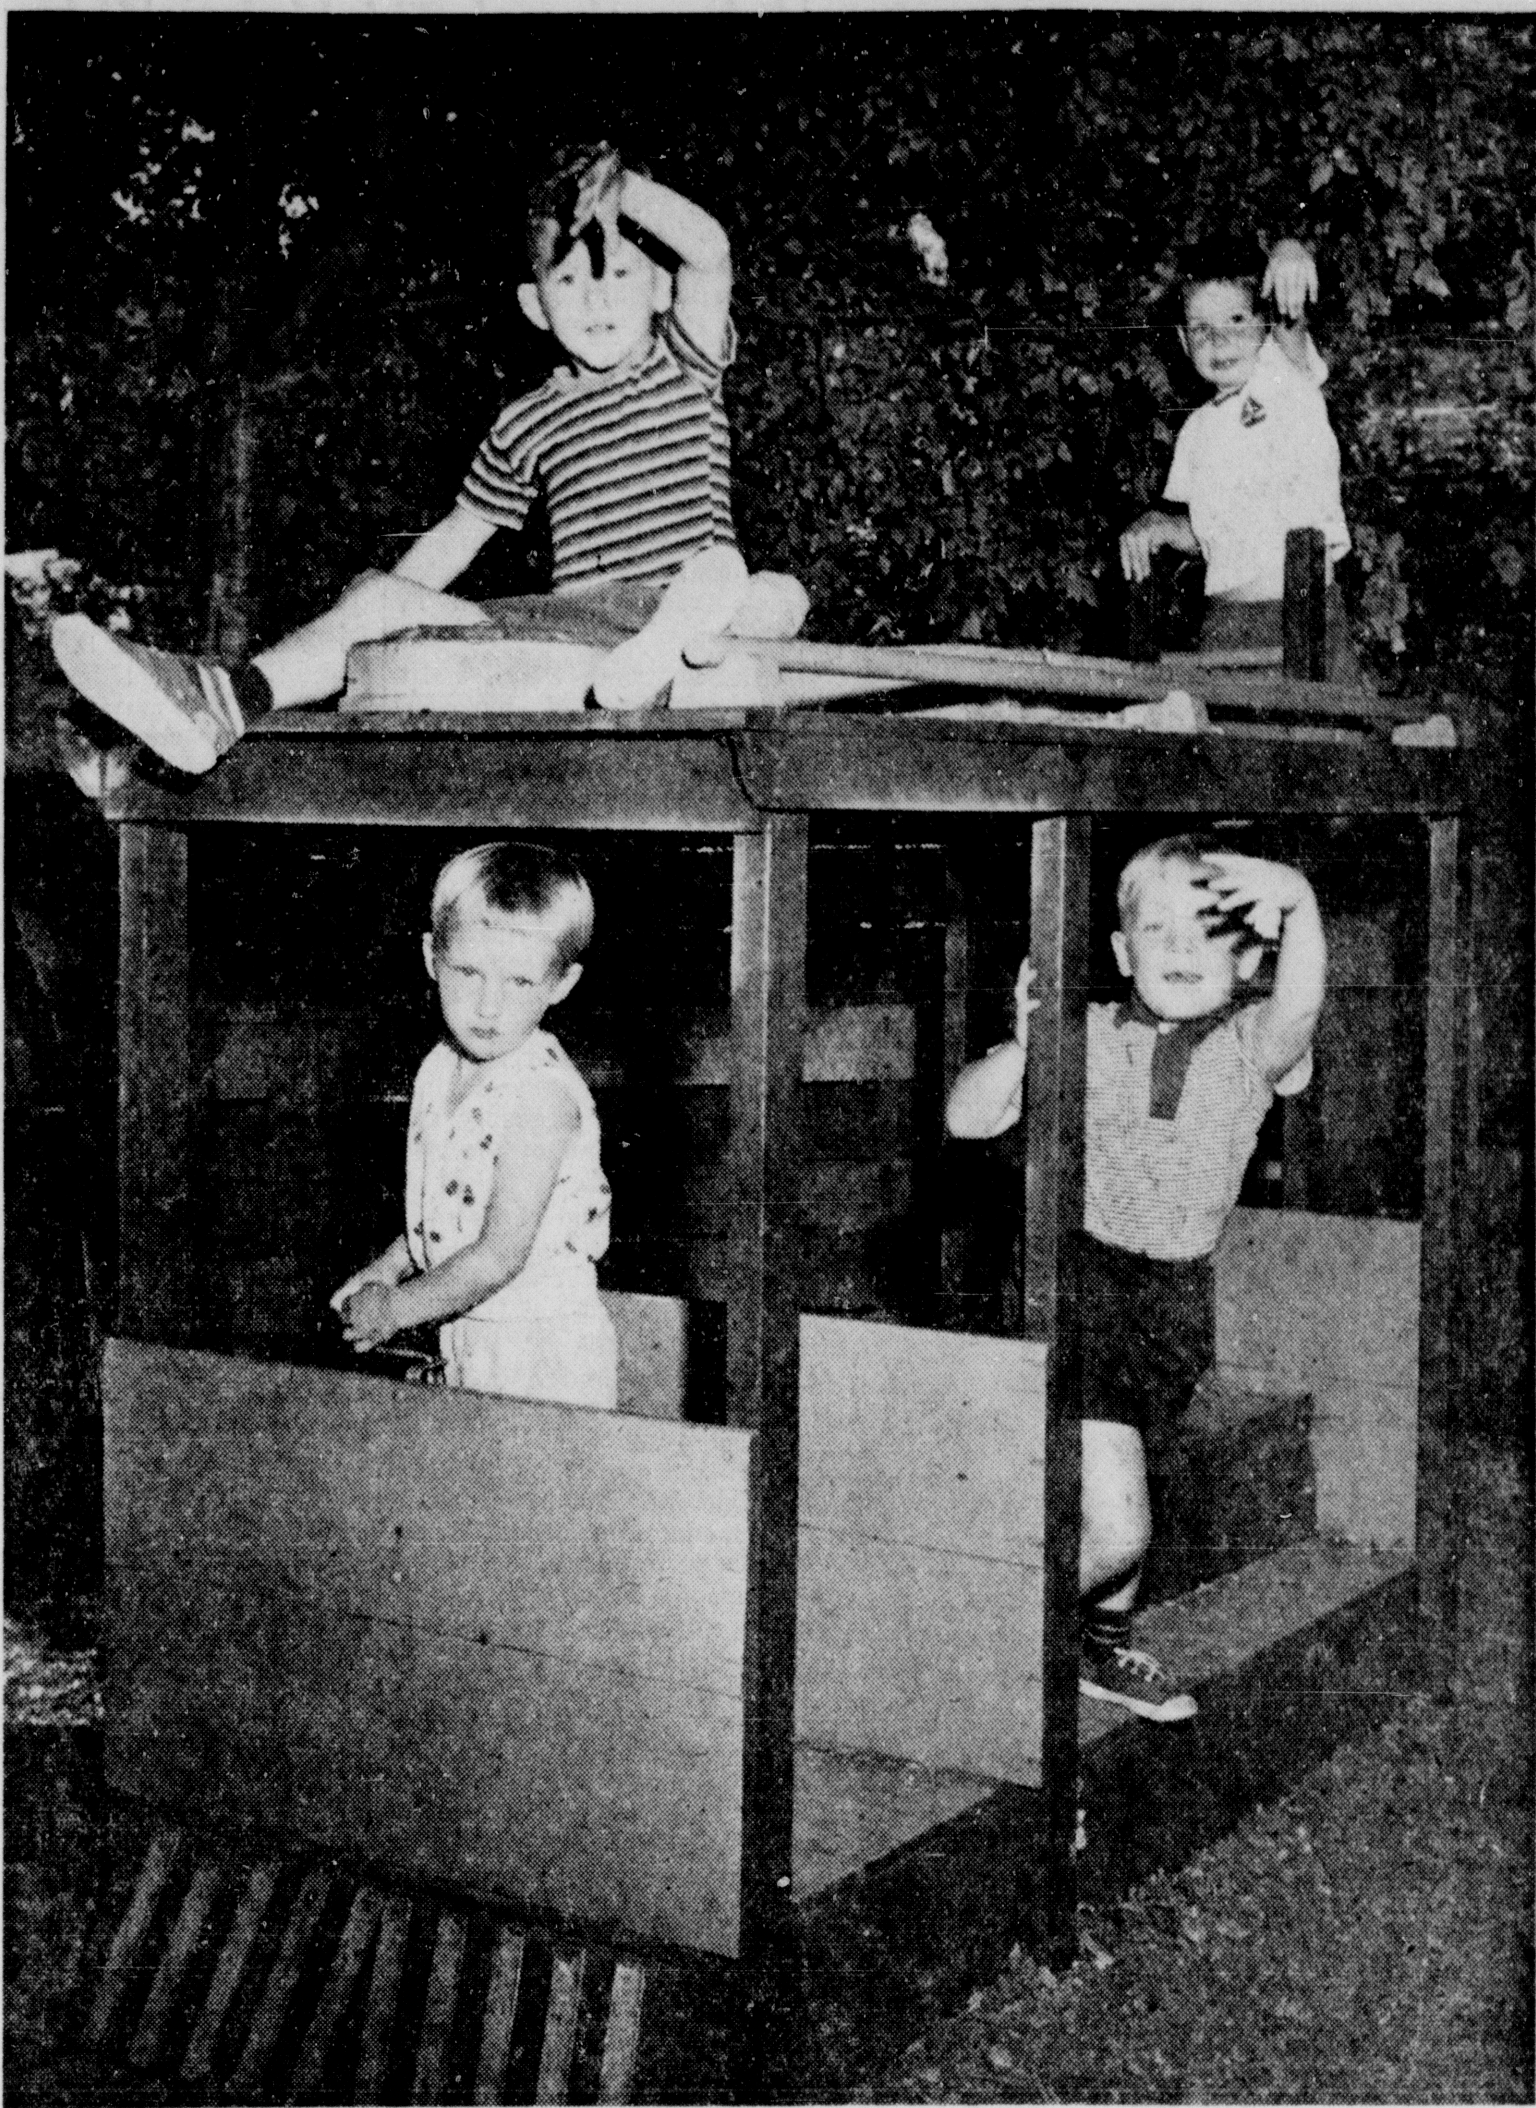

As the American Dental Association says, "Crest has been shown to be effective" (when you use it right and use it regularly). So team it up with the right kind of dental program and start reducing your family's cavities now.

Why is Crest different from other toothpastes?

The answer is simple. The thing that makes Crest different is Fluoristan®—an exclusive stannous fluoride formula.

Stannous fluoride, you know, is a decay-fighter dentists themselves use to prevent cavities. With Crest, you put the same fluoride on your teeth at home, too, every time you brush.

The effectiveness of this fluoride in Crest has been proved by years of tests. Tests in which Crest had to prove its superiority over regular toothpaste. And did in test after test.

Mixed Green Salad Ranks First As National Favorite

By JEANNE LESEM
NEW YORK (UPI)—Salad favorites in the U. S. are a toss-up between the fruit and vegetable worlds.

But tossed or mixed green salad ranked first by a sizeable margin in a poll to determine the six best-sellers. The study was made by Institutions Magazine, a trade publication for mass feeding and mass housing.

The next three in line feature fruit—in gelatin, with cottage cheese, and mixed fruits. Cole slaw placed fifth, and sliced tomatoes, sixth.

You can't always identify a salad by its name. The wheel of fortune on the menu of a leading New Orleans hotel combines tomato aspic, egg salad and shrimp on shredded lettuce. Horseshoe or racing king salad at a famous Denver hotel is made with avocado sliced in horseshoe shape, with "nails" of black olive dots and orange, grapefruit and maraschino cherry filling. Jewel salad at a San Jose, Calif., food service operation consists of cream cheese with leftover cubes of assorted gelatins.

To make every day a salad day, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association offers these reminders:

A simple salad is best; never a conglomeration of flavors or a dressing that masks rather than enhances ingredients. Both ingredients and salad plates should be cold and greens should be crisp. To prevent soggy, add dressing just before serving, and drain all fruit well.

Cut ingredients into varied, interesting shapes, but not so small that they look hashed. Strips, rounds and ovals make a good combination. A bed of shredded lettuce or lettuce leaves to frame the salad should not cover the plate completely or hang over the edge.

As a first course, serve a tart, crisp salad, and avoid sweet fruits or heavy dressings. Luncheon salads are usually larger. Made with protein food, such as meat, cheese or eggs, they may constitute the main course, accompanied by hot bread, toast, sandwiches or soup. Dinner calls for a small salad, emphasizing raw fruits and vegetables, or the national favorite, a green salad.

For dessert, try fruit salad with cheese or a cookie, frozen fruit salad or a fruited gelatin mold such as this orange-pine-apple whipped sundae salad.

Drain 2½ cups (20-ounce can) of crushed pineapple. Reserve 1 cup syrup. Heat syrup to boiling, pour it over 1 (3-ounce) package of orange-flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until thick and syrupy. Chill 1 cup of undiluted evaporated milk in refrigerator tray 15 to 20 minutes, or until ice crystals form around the edge. Whip about 1 minute, or until stiff. Add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and whip 2 minutes longer, or until very stiff.

Educational TV Helps Kids Learn About Many Sciences

By PETER J. HAYES

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—During the coming school year thousands of San Francisco Bay area third graders will learn about science from an instructor who actually is 12,000 miles away in the Himalaya mountains searching for the "Abominable snowman."

Neatest trick of the year? No, simply an example of classroom television at work, as performed by KQED, California's pioneer educational TV station.

Dr. Lawrence Swan, assistant professor of biological science at San Francisco State College, is rushing completion of 27 filmed programs of such topics as snakes, turtles, bats and the solar system.

These programs will be beamed at Bay Area classrooms from October through next May. During that time Swan will be in the Himalayas with Sir Edmund Hillary, co-conqueror of Mount Everest, in a search for the legendary ape-man creature of the Asia mountains.

KQED is proud of its progress since it was launched June 10, 1954 with barely $30,000 in the bank and a staff of less than 10 persons.

In addition to devoting about seven hours a week during the school year to public school classroom instruction, it offers a wide variety of programs of adult education, discussion, musical performance, special events and public affairs.

In 1958-59, its first year of classroom telecasts, KQED held contracts with 45 school districts covering about 100,000 youngsters. Last year the total climbed to 67 districts and 120,000 students. Station officials confidently expect the figure to be surpassed this year.

From a converted warehouse on the edge of San Francisco's tenement district, KQED broadcasts on Channel 9, one of the 256 television channels set aside in 1952 by the Federal Communications Commission for the sole use of education.

Under terms of its franchise, KQED must operate as a non-commercial television station. It cannot accept advertising.

KQED estimates its audience at half a million in 10 Bay Area counties. A statement of policy says:

"In all of its programming,

KQED is governed by a respect for the intelligence and integrity of its viewers. It believes viewers demand to have their minds challenged occasionally. And it believes that controversy, fairly and honestly presented, is an integral part of the search for truth."

In the first year the station charged school districts 45 cents per student per academic year. But KQED lost nearly $25,000, so boosted it to 60 cents the next year.

KQED's Raymond L. Smith, director of school broadcasting, works with curriculum advisory committees composed of school representatives from the contracting districts.

Their difficult task is to set up courses that will be desirable to the largest number of schools and teachers in the 10-county area.

Mortimer Fleishacker Jr., president of the association that owns KQED, emphasized that the programs are designed to "supplement and enrich" the regular classroom curriculum of public schools.

"They most certainly are not designed to replace the teacher in the classroom, but rather to be a welcome resource for teachers in a variety of subject areas," he said.

Last year KQED offered such courses as speech improvement for primary grades, emphasizing enunciation and pronunciation.

California Designers Show Spanish-Inspired Styles

California, so recently in the news with the political convention, now turns to its own fascinating conclave of fashion candidates that write a winning ticket for fall.

For the coming season, California dips into its own heritage and comes up with a big and popular vote for Spanish themes.

California designers lay stress to the mood in lace, braid, ruffles, and even mantillas.

In sportswear, the Golden State underscores the mator's bolero, vaquero pants, bold braids, ponchos, serapes and everywhere — vivid color!

California's mood is primarily classic! Everywhere the classic is richly stated in elegant fabric and intricate detail.

There are spirited fashions from California for every occasion — all done with a master touch and an eye to excitement.

Silhouettes in the California picture are parallel to those in Eastern showings.

Waistlines are generally lowered but clearly defined.

Bustlines are curved and the tunic look is often emphasized. Softly-full skirts appear in all classifications, but the arched shape gives balance to the easy lines of bodices.

There's emphasis on placement of pockets and fur trims for drama, and these further point to the dropped lines of fashion.

California is accenting the look of the tailleur, and expresses it mainly in elegant shirtwaist types, in mild draping and eased bodices.

Silk prints are California's good news note throughout the scene.

As always, California plays up the "young look" . . . but it's not the "sweet, young thing" or last season's Bardot-inspired "voluptuous look."

Fall '60 sees low hip treatment with a subdued dirndl fullness, in high rounded necklines and in simple sleeves. All in all, the feeling of youth is best expressed by gentle shaping, elegance of color and classic lines.

Pleats shape much of California's fashion news; pleats appear in daytime and after-five wear alike.

Black crepes, and silks start the California fall season.

As the season progresses, the drama of after-five wear adds excitement to the scene in dinner skirts, long culottes, slim ankle length gowns as well as the more lavish bouffant gowns and short, but elegant ensembles of dress and coat.

California turns to nature's own lavish palette for color inspiration — in lavenders to purples of sunsets; to brilliant blues and greens of the sea-coast; to the hazy tones of mountains, expressed in beiges and browns; its gemstone colors are mined in an opulent display, and California's own gold is used again and again for lavish, luxurious accents.

Day or daytime, classic or casual, for active sports or wearables to wear while watching; for the most gala premiere or for a simple cocktail party, California presents all that's dramatic and daring, expressive and exciting — and above all — so richly interpreted by artists, with the painter's lavish feeling for color!

Silk prints are California's good news note throughout the scene.

ATLANTA (UPI)—Studies of enzymatic activities of connective tissue have led investigators at Emory University to suggest that the fundamental disorder in muscular dystrophy might be in the connective tissue that surrounds the muscle — and not in the muscle itself.

Geoffrey H. Bourne and M. Nelly Golarz of Emory reported their findings in a recent issue of Nature, a scientific publication. Their studies were supported by a National Cancer Institute grant.

Sable On The Inside

Norman Hartnell, of London, combines sable with honey and black tweed for coat and matching suit. He uses the sable as lining, in keeping with a British emphasis on simplicity for winter.

MRS. EDWIN CALKINS (Jayne Pryddarch) of Mill Valley practices a choir number she will sing at the 29th annual national Gymanfa Ganu starting Thursday in San Francisco. She is wearing a national costume featuring a red cape and tall black hat — according to legend a probable model for the "Mother Goose" costume. The antique square rosewood piano was brought around the horn around 1850, she believes.

Mill Valley Woman Makes Plans For 4-Day Welsh Song Festival

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Marin County is known to many Welsh people as "Little Wales beyond the Golden Gate," according to Mrs. Edwin Calkins of Mill Valley, who is working hard on the forthcoming Welsh Gymanfa Ganu (song festival) to be held in San Francisco Thursday through Sunday.

And as justification for the name she produced a picture of the country around the Welsh castle of Harlech, of "Men of Harlech fame," which was almost identical with a postal card picture of Stinson beach.

"We know there are many Welsh people in Marin," she said, "for some are members of the Northern California Cambrian Association, but we feel there are many more who will want to know about the 29th annual national Gymanfa Ganu."

Mrs. Calkins, who writes under her original Welsh name of Jayne Pryddarch for the Welsh-American newspaper "Y Drych" and handles publicity for the Cambrian Association, says that more than 3,000 Welsh people will be gathering from all over the United States for the festival.

"Headquarters will be in the Jack Tar hotel in the city," she said. "Among events planned are a welcome tea on Thursday, Nosen Lawen (happy evening) Friday, a banquet on Saturday evening, for which reservations are due at once; and church services in Welsh Sunday morning followed by the Gymanfa Ganu Sunday afternoon and evening.

TO TIMES OF DRUIDS
"Festival emphasis will be on music, particularly the world famous Welsh singing which dates back to Druidical times. If the Welsh have become an inspiring race of singers, it is perhaps because they began singing much earlier than other peoples and were skilled in part singing as early as the Tenth Century."

"In addition to the great choir and general community singing, there will be solos by many of the Bay Area's outstanding professional musicians."

Jayne Calkins herself is a musician, primarily a pianist rather than a singer. Trained from the age of six to be a concert pianist, she was graduated from the Utica Conservatory of Music in Utica, New York, but was forced to give up career ambitions as a result of an injury to her arm.

Born in Utica of Welsh parents, she was taken almost immediately by her father and mother to live in Barmouth, Wales, where her mother, a fellow of the Royal College of Music, was organist at the Caersalem Chapel.

At the age of six Jayne returned with her family to Utica and had to learn to speak English when she started school.

STUDIES DRAMA

At this time she also began the study of music. For 15 years she sang with the Bach Choir in Utica and was a member of the Girls' Choir. She also studied dramatics, becoming a member of the Utica Players and Theater Workshop. In New York she appeared with the

"Top Hatters."

When a concert pianist career became out of the question, Jayne took a position with the Doubleday Book Company and has become a collector of rare books, especially Welsh ones.

She married Edwin Calkins, a Yale graduate with a master's degree in scenic design, after she came to San Francisco in 1950. He is now employed in display work there.

In San Francisco Jayne has appeared mainly with the San Francisco Municipal Players, Interplayers and Playhouse Repertory as actress, singer and musical director for several productions.

In 1958 she attended an Eisteddfod, or music and arts festival, in Wales.

Last year Jayne toured with and did lighting for performances of the Flamenco singer, Chirin De Triana, and his wife, Loretta Garcia, a Flamenco dancer, who were brought to this country by the famous Jose Greco.

Mrs. Calkins asks all Welsh people in Marin to call her for complete information on the Gymanfa Ganu.

New Hormone Find

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new pituitary hormone which can cause a sharp increase in the concentration of fats in the blood has been isolated and described by New York Heart Association grantee Dr. Daniel Rudman and associates at Columbia University.

Called "fraction H" the hormone is the tenth identified from the pituitary gland. One injection of Fraction H is capable of producing a ten-fold increase in the concentration of fats circulating in rabbit blood.

Educators Disagree On Marriage Class

NEW YORK (UPI)—Should schools do more to prepare students for family life and marriage?

Mrs. James C. Parker, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers believes the schools should assume more responsibility along these lines.

When a sampling of the nation's 16,000 school administrators was polled on the question, however, there was sharp division of opinion.

The survey, conducted by the "Nation's Schools," a journal for school administrators, found 54 per cent of the superintendents favoring Mrs. Parker's idea. But 44 per cent disagreed. Two per cent had no opinion.

The educators who favored the proposal said it would be relatively easy and worthwhile to revamp present courses and programs to include more marriage-preparation training.

"Family living," one superintendent said, "could be an integral part of the present citizenship courses; family finances, a part of the math program; the biological aspect, a part of the science program."

Some educators said they were willing to de-emphasize certain subjects and programs to make room for separate marriage courses.

"The average high school health course is a waste of time because it is a duplication of study in the grades, in biology and in home economics," an Ohio administrator told the Nation's Schools.

"A course in marriage preparation could easily take its place."

An Oklahoma superintendent suggested music courses might be dropped. "Music departments," he told the pollsters, "are now just part of an over-expensive public relations program."

Among those disagreeing with the proposal was a Maine schoolman.

"What next, pray tell," he said, "will be added to the public school curriculum?"

And a North Dakota educator—"I deplore the growing trend to add to our schools responsibilities that belong in the home."

"More and more we have assumed parents' obligations," said an Indiana superintendent. "We should return a few responsibilities to the home and assume new ones only when we are in a better position than the parents to accomplish the desired objective."

That sentiment was echoed by an Illinois schoolman who said:

"The schools of today have consistently replaced the responsibility of the parent. The more responsibility the school takes, the more parents will expect."

The Legs Are A Give-Away In Furniture

Take a look at the legs—according to the American Hardwoods Association, it's a short cut to recognizing furniture styles.

Every type of leg styling plays a triple role in the function of furniture. They must be engineered to hold weight and remain evenly balanced.

Their size, shape and color must harmonize with the style of the furniture and continue the overall effect of the wood.

The swelling "knee," often embellished with a scalloped shell design identifies Queen Anne furniture as quickly as the softly curving chair lines.

In contrast to this comparatively unadorned type of leg, Louis XV reproductions feature ornate "leg art." During this period, furniture became smaller, more feminine and bore every type of elaborate ornamentation including carving, enamel, gilt and painted panels.

The succeeding Louis XVI "straightened" the look and turned to elegant legs reminiscent of miniature Greek columns with fluted effects.

The famous Chippendale leg varies its posture between its early cabriole stance with carved "knee" to the later straight-legged design. Back legs of Chippendale chairs are almost invariably straight, with the feet featuring a scroll, claw and ball or leaf design.

Sheraton, an early modernist who invented twin beds and roll-top desks preferred slender, tapered legs, delicate in appearance, and often reeded.

Provincial furniture is the happy result of simple wood-working imitations of gilt-and-goldy furnishings, and can be found in the "country" flavored type which includes Early American or in the formal style with richer upholstery and decoration. Bun feet are characteristic with curved or straight stretchers between the legs.

Duncan Phyfe, an American Provincial style, is easily identified by the famous lyre design, brass-tipped feet, carved pedestal table bases, and the x-crossed leg which has been adapted to contemporary design.

Modern or contemporary furniture styles feature graceful, straight-lined legs, sometimes tapering to slender, unadorned feet.

Contemporary design legs often do double-duty as levers that raise or lower table tops to permit more comfortable seating.

Yes, legs always put their "best foot forward" to balance, complement and of course, identify furniture.

Some Advice For Teen-Age Girls Who Are Just Starting To Date

Do you have a teen-age girl? Is she worried about dating? Here is some practical advice for her.

You might clip this column for her.

I called together the most popular girls in two big high schools. They all date frequently. They're good girls from nice homes. I asked them for suggestions to pass along to girls just starting to date. They came up with these ideas.

Play the field: There will be plenty of time to go steady later. Accept invitations from any good boy. Don't worry about his size or his face. Even if you are taller than he is, you can have fun. Handsome boys usually are conceited. Ordinary looking guys are apt to be nicer.

Study your date: Take time to find his interests. Then ask him about them. Get him started talking and be a good listener. Remember what he says and refer back to it. He'll love it.

Laugh and smile: Every escort likes a chuckle and hates a groan. Boys avoid girls who criticize. If you want to be asked out a second time, act like you're having fun.

Be reasonable about expenses: Most boys earn their spending money. They aren't rich. They'll like you better if you choose moderate items on the menus. You shouldn't be too cheap. But don't be a gold digger.

Avoid drinking, heavy petting, sex: You don't have to be a bum to be popular. Girls who go too far usually are black-listed by decent kids.

Avoid pick-ups: Don't let strange boys pick you up at games, movies or on the street. It's a quick way to get into trouble.

READERS' FORUM
(Q) "Dr. Barbour, can you recommend a really good self-help book for modern teenagers?"

M.R.
(A) There are many good books. The one I like best is "How to be a Successful Teen-Agers," by William C. Menninger. (Sterling Publishing Co., 419 Fourth Avenue, New York 16, N.Y.)

United Crusade To Open With Rally, Sept. 19

United Bay Area Crusade for Marin and four other counties will open with a big rally in San Francisco on Sept. 19 at 12:30 p.m.

Ed Sullivan, television personality and columnist, will be master of ceremonies at the rally. It will be held at the new Crowl Zellerbach plaza, bordered by Sansome, Market and Bush Streets.

Edward W. Bullard Jr., chairman of the Marin County drive, will head the Marin group participating in the rally.

OPERA SINGER

Mary Costa, San Francisco Opera Company soprano, will open the program with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Jay "Dennis the Menace" North of Screen Gems, Inc., the CBS television counterpart of the Crusade's 1960 theme boy, will help carry out the big-give drive motif: "This Year Everybody Gives."

The Twelfth Naval District Band and the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, Drum and Bugle Team will help entertain the large noon-time crowds expected to gather around the plaza.

MAYORS DUE

At 1 p.m., mayors from the five member counties of the Crusade will take part in a joint action which will set off a salute of whistles and bells.

Agencies serving Bay Area people and depending on the outcome of the drive are local youth services — Y's, Scouts, Boys' Clubs, Camp Fire and Catholic Youth Organization; Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and non-sectarian child care and family counseling services; visiting nurses, clinics, Red Cross, USO, Salvation Army, Travelers' Aid, United Statesmen's Service, Urban League and others, including local units of national health agencies.

LET'S PLAY, FELLOWS

A snooty bluejay who seems to prefer the company of humans to other birds apparently likes the atmosphere of Terrace Avenue, San Anselmo. He has been staying there about a week.

Perched on a fence, he enjoys a game with Charles Castelli, 7, and Bill Castelli, 10, of 55 Terrace Avenue. Can that be a twinkle in bluejay's eye as he poses pleasantly for a closeup? (Independent-Journal photo)

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

(A Thrice-Weekly Column)
By HARRY CRAFT

This Investment Brings Returns Far Beyond Monetary Profits

Something new and very solid in "fiduciary investments" is being offered to Marin County residents which bears returns above and beyond any measure of pecuniary profits.

Investments may be made in cash, real estate, securities, even life insurance; securities at today's market value without payment of any capital gain on their appreciation. Dividends are high and non-taxable. The investment itself is tax deductible.

No better recommendation can be made for it than mention of its sponsoring group whose names are familiar to most of us: William P. Murray, Harry Albert, Kenneth K. Bechtel, Sidney Braverman, Roy A. Ibach, Joudge Jordan Martinielli, Thomas C. Nelson and William E. Waste.

These are the trustees of the Marin Council, Boy Scouts of America, and your investment lies in our Marin youth and its future good citizenship.

Six different "investment plans" are being offered. Consult your attorney, bank or investment counselor for details—most of them have been fully informed.

THE EXPANSION of highways and jetports across the nation is causing a number of research laboratories to pull up stakes and move to quieter sites.

Jetports are the worst offenders—noise and vibrations affect delicate electronic instruments—but highway vibrations from heavy truck traffic are almost as bad.

A case in point: The California Research Corp. in Richmond.

When plans were made to build an approach to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge across its land, the company did not protest.

The result: Loss of about 100 yards of attractive grounds, a two-story-high embankment and road right next to the building entrance, destruction of part of the laboratory's necessary aesthetic qualities, elimination of all future expansion in that direction.

Why, we wonder, doesn't the CRC look into some quiet section of Marin County? There are a few such places left, I'm told.

FOREIGN CARS have undoubtedly dropped far behind in sales. New California registrations are running only a little more than half of what they were a year ago.

On this subject, V. C. Garibaldi, president of Fiat Motor Co., Inc., probably has the most practical outlook—or at least the most resigned.

Imported cars selling in this country, he says, should not gear for more than 6 per cent of total new car sales.

"There is no market for millions of small cars in the United States," he admits, "since they are only a second or third car for the average American family which needs one big enough for all the kids and the perambulator, too."

He adds that there will always be a "reasonable" market for a small economy auto that American makers will not build.

BOOBY PRIZE: If Marin County held top place among the nine Bay Area counties for industrial building permits in June, last month was a different story and a sadder one.

Santa Clara was out in front with $1,400,150; Alameda County ran second with $564,450; San Mateo third with $285,700; Marin County—nothing.

Cheer up—at least we kept up July, 1959.

More Students Expected In Exchange Plan

Marin County families will have at least nine American Field Service foreign exchange students living with them, and attending local schools this year.

In addition to five who have already arrived from Europe, the following are expected: Ahmet A. Gucuyener from Turkey, who will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Putney of Mill Valley and attend Tamalpais High; Rosaria Larcomarino of Madrid, Spain, who will live with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Speh of San Rafael and attend San Rafael High; Victoria Geneteau of Panama City, Panama, who will live with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leisure of Terra Linda and Alkis Mangriotis of Greece, due to stay with the L. W. Nigeman family of San Anselmo.

Jacques Delacroix of France is now staying with Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Kruth of Novato; Charles Katungi of Uganda with Judge and Mrs. Richard Sims of Tiburon; Jacqueline Marterer of France with Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert of Corte Madera; Roger Smeets of Belgium with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eju of San Rafael; and Ampora Huici-Casal from Spain, with Dr. and Mrs. William Pemberton, Mill Valley.

Rancher Held For Trial In Assault Case

Mattias Kornell, 44-year-old Indian rancher, was held for Superior Court trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon by Judge Richard M. Sims of Marin County Municipal Court yesterday.

The rancher is accused of terrorizing his estranged wife, Joelle, and five other persons in the home of her brother, William J. Kaufmann, at 6 Pelican Point, Belvedere, Aug. 7.

Arrestment is scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6. Kornell is free on $1,050 bail.

At the preliminary hearing yesterday his wife testified that Kornell carried a loaded .22 calibre rifle into the house and was disarmed by her brother's business partner, Morris Dameron.

Her nephew, 17-year-old Joel Kaufmann, then whacked Kornell twice on the head with a baseball bat, she said.

Workshop Has More Openings

A limited number of openings remain in the Saturday morning children's workshop on the Dominican College campus, San Rafael.

Classes include an introduction to the French language and a pre-instrumental introduction to basic music skills for children aged 5-8, class instruction in piano and theory for properly qualified children aged 7-10, and a theater workshop for children aged 10-14.

Boys and girls may enroll in these classes, which begin on Sept. 10 and meet on Saturday mornings through May 27, 1961. Parents interested may obtain further information from the director of Saturday classes, Dominican Convent Administration office.

NEW TWIST IN BARBER POLES

Barber William Van Houter of Rochester, N.Y., admires the barber shop stripes he painted on a utility pole in front of his shop. He said he got permission from utility companies, but officials of those companies say they don't like the idea and are going into the matter a little further. (AP Wirephoto)

Board To Air Employment Policies

County policy on employment of handicapped persons will be threshed out before the Marin County Board of Supervisors at 4 p.m. tomorrow. At the same time the physical examination program will be examined.

The county insurance advisor recently brought up the point that Marin's already high county insurance rates might be affected still more unfavorably if accidents were to occur due to presence in county employ of persons prone to special difficulty due to accident.

This discussion will come up after 2 p.m. consideration of a dozen matters sent by the Planning Commission.

It is expected that bids for the additions to Juvenile Hall will be acted on by the supervisors, following checks ordered last week. Bids will be opened for overlay on the road over White's Hill at 11 a.m.

At the same hour the supervisors will take up an annexation to the Greenbrae Lighting District and a hearing on Marinero Residence No. 1, Special Assessment District.

Henry David Thoreau, the poet, once said: "What is called genius is the abundance of life or health."

TWO FEATHERS IN CAP — Lt. Col. O. R. (Dick) Street of 15 Hillcrest Court, San Anselmo, won a double honor Thursday. Street, an insurance executive in civilian life, is new commander of the 9081st Air Reserve Group in San Francisco, and also winner of the Air Force's Commendation Medal. He won the medal for leadership of the 9364th Air Reserve Squadron at Hamilton Field. Lt. Col. Russell R. Bessom of San Rafael, commander of the San Francisco Air Reserve Center, presented Street with the medal.

SOME ANTEDATE STATE

Old Wineries Designated As Historical Landmarks

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's world famous wineries hold as much interest for the historian as they do for the lover of fine wines. Some, in fact, are older than the state itself.

Taking recognition of their historical value, the state has designated 11 of the old wineries as official historical landmarks, and has plans to register several others which are eligible.

The oldest now registered is the Sebastiani vineyards and winery in Sonoma, where in 1825 the Franciscan fathers planted Sonoma County's finest vineyard.

The second oldest on the official list is the Cucamonga Rancho winery, which dates back to 1839.

Two of the historical wineries were founded in 1852—Paul Masson near Saratoga and the Almaden vineyard, also in Santa Clara County.

The champagne cellar of Col. Agoston Haraszthy, called the father of California's wine industry, was dug into a Sonoma County hillside in 1857.

Charles Krug, oldest operating winery in Napa County, was established in 1861, and a year later the Schramsberg winery was founded in the same county.

Leland Stanford's old winery in Mission San Jose, now operated by the Weibel champagne makers, was established in 1839.

Others on the official listing include Italian Swiss Colony, set up in 1881 near Asti by Italian-Swiss immigrants; Cresta Blanca, founded in Livermore in 1882 by a newspaperman, and the nearby Concannon vineyards, established in 1883 for the production of sacramental wines for the Catholic Church.

Luncheon Slated For New Teachers

A luncheon for all new teachers at Tamalpais High School and the eight elementary schools of the Mill Valley District will be held at noon Wednesday at Sabella's restaurant.

The annual event is sponsored by the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Twenty-five new teachers are expected to attend in addition to principals and other school officials, said chairman John E. McSweeney. Individual members of the chamber will be invited to be hosts. City council members have also been invited.

Jerry Montizambert will be master of ceremonies.

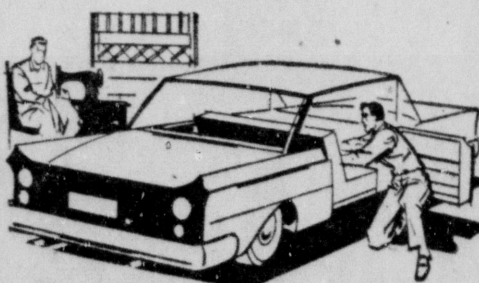

Fire District Pays Substation Bill

Tiburon Fire Protection District commissioners in a special meeting Friday night paid the A. A. Hemmerling Co. $7,500 for 70 per cent completion of the Trestle Glen substation, according to Commission Secretary Kelly J. Wheeler.

Commissioners also paid M. Greenberg and Sons a $147 fire hydrant installation charge.
